'CLEARING HOUSE' OF PENAL SYSTEM IS PROPOSED HERE

NATIONAL EXPERT SUGGESTS REFORMS

'Low Type' Guards Would Be Rejected; CCC Plant Desired as Test Camps.

Two members of Georgia's new Board of Penal Administration will confer with Fulton county commissioners today concerning the feasibility of establishing a "quarantine detention camp" in Fulton tower, to serve as a clearing house for north Georgia prisoners who would otherwise be sent direct to Tattnall prison for a 30-day quarantine period.

A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville, and Dr. John R. Lewis, of Louisville, were named to work with the county commissioners in determining the cost of maintaining such a camp, compared with the cost of transporting the prisoners to and from Tattnall prison before they are assigned to the various county camps.

The proposal grew out of a conference yesterday of Governor Rivers and Georgia penal officials with Sanford Bates, former director of the United States Bureau of Prisons. Members of the Board of Penal Administration, the new prison and parole commission, and the special legislative prison commission attended the meeting.

Would Grade Prisoners.

Tentative plans provide that the top floor of Fulton tower would be turned over to the state for use as a "detention camp." There prisoners would be physically examined, finger printed and properly classified, the same procedure advocated for new prisoners at Georgia's "Alcatraz of the Piney Woods."

Members indicated they would adopt which ever plan was least expensive. If it is more economical to haul the prisoners to Tattnall, this plan will be followed, they declared.

Meanwhile, the penal board plans to investigate the possibilities of obtaining WPA aid for the erection of a separate building for this purpose near the old Soldiers' Home. The state would co-operate with the federal government in housing federal prisoners awaiting trial.

Segregation Urged.

In making specific recommendations for carrying out Georgia's recently enacted program of prison reform, Bates stressed the need for proper classification and segregation of prisoners, establishment of a broad parole system and expansion of Georgia's prison industries.

He said prisoners should be classified according to their practical needs, explaining that segregation as to races is not sufficent. A system of classification, he said, should consider the term of cus-

CITY ACTS ON PLAN FOR SAFE SCHOOLS

Councilmen Weigh Issue of Bonds To Eliminate Removable Classrooms.

Feasibility of a $3,300,000 bond issue to eliminate dangerous, wooden portable classrooms in the Atlanta school system will be studied by the finance committee of city council.

Authority for the committee to determine the needs of the school system and the details of advantageously issuing bonds for the erection of modern buildings was voted yesterday upon the motion of Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the finance committee.

This step, in line with the recommendations of Dr. Thomas H. Reed, municipal expert who recently surveyed the city and county governments, was the first important move in the campaign of many citizens to remove children from the unhealthy and dangerous surroundings of inadequate school facilities. Fathers of high school boys are to meet tonight to discuss plans for new buildings.

Fighting Rages at Close Quarters as Insurgents Encircle Loyalist Forces

WITH THE INSURGENTS ON THE TERUEL FRONT, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Explosions heard in Teruel tonight indicated government forces surrounded in the besieged city were blowing up their munitions dumps, as fighting raged at close quarters in the outskirts.

Government forces estimated by the Insurgents at 1,200 to 1,600 men, continued to occupy the city, attempting to hold off their besiegers with machine guns.

As the fighting approached a climax, Generalissimo Franco's artillery advanced to new positions and heavily bombarded enemy positions east and south of Teruel. A large air force again coordinated artillery fire.

Insurgents held all strategic positions controlling the city, including Santa Barbara and Teruel cemetery, both strongly fortified positions which Franco's men stormed Sunday.

Eleanor Whitney's Father Sues Star For Support; Says He Has 72 Cents

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Eleanor Whitney, tap-dancing member of Hollywood's younger social set, was called on today to rescue her father from a financial dilemma.

Complaining that his dilemma was so acute that he required immediate assistance, Allen Whitney filed an action in Los Angeles superior court to force his daughter to contribute to his support.

Whitney, long divorced from the dancer's mother, Anna Whitney, jingled two quarters, a dime, two nickels and two pennies—72 cents in all—and explained that they represented his entire fortune.

He requested an allowance of $25 a week and $200 in a lump sum to cover a new wardrobe and doctor bills. He recited that his daughter is earning $500 a week in motion pictures.

The Cleveland girl, who made good in Hollywood after learning to dance from Bill Robinson, could not be reached for a statement. Her studio said she was vacationing "somewhere in the east" and would not return before next week.

Whitney took a pauper's oath to escape paying the usual $7 filing fee for his petition. He alleged that he was unable to find work and that unemployment relief was denied him because his daughter "is earning a large salary and is legally bound to support him."

ROOSEVELT ASKS NEW SOLIDARITY AMONG AMERICAS

'Exclusion of Political Principles and Problems Which Are Alien to This Hemisphere' Is Urged.

HITLER'S POWER DISTURBS SENATOR

U. S. Fleet Maneuvers to Cover Area of Nearly 12,000,000 Miles in Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The United States government bid today for close co-operation among American republics "to the exclusion of political principles and problems which are alien to this hemisphere."

Secretary of State Hull announced this objective and made public a message from President Roosevelt to the president of Argentina, expressing eagerness to assist in the furtherance of inter-American solidarity.

President's Message.

The President's message said in part: "Our two republics nurtured with similar ideals have lived together peacefully in a troubled world for over a century, and it is my hope that they will continue to co-operate efficaciously for the preservation of peace. . . .

"As you assume the responsibilities of your high office, I assure you of my best wishes, in which I am joined by the people of the United States of America, for a successful administration. It is my earnest desire to assist in the furtherance of a constructive and fruitful policy of inter-American co-operation."

Meanwhile, the Navy Department announced that the Pacific fleet maneuvers, beginning in March, will cover an area of nearly 12,000,000 square miles.

Fleet Maneuvers.

The maneuvers will be held in an area west of the United States to Hawaii and Midway island and southward from Alaska and the Aleutian islands to Samoa.

About 150 men-of-war and 500 planes will take part in the war games, lasting about six weeks.

They will be manned by 3,600 officers and 55,000 enlisted men, under Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander of the fleet.

Senator Disturbed.

His expressions concerning the desirability of solidarity on this continent were linked with that situation, however, in the minds of many students of foreign affairs. They were read with special interest in view of a prediction by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, that Germany had become the most powerful nation in Europe.

"This is disturbing to me," said King, "because it means she will push her economic policies in Latin America, and two nations there have many German citizens already. I refer to Brazil and Argentina.

"It means that she (Germany) will adopt a policy that will seek to undermine the influence of the United States in Latin America, as well as to undermine the Monroe Doctrine."

President Roosevelt's message to Dr. Robert M. Ortiz, the newly-inaugurated president of Argentina, was delivered by Lieutenant Colonel Robert Olds, who commanded the flight of six "flying fortresses" to Buenos Aires to participate in Dr. Ortiz's inauguration ceremonies.

British To Regain Mediterranean In Shake-Up, Observers Forecast

London Expected To Recognize Ethiop Conquest and Give Hitler Free Hand in Central Europe

WAR IMMEDIATELY BELIEVED UNLIKELY

Reorganization of Paris Government To Right Held Probable Result.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Great Britain's sudden shift to a "practical" policy of conciliation in her relations with Europe's Fascist dictators today shook the world's democracies and authoritarian states alike.

1—Despite widespread talk of war and the furious rearmament race, a general European conflict was not foreseen in the immediate future.

Recognition of Ethiopia.

2—Premier Mussolini, of Italy, will get the greatly desired British recognition of his Ethiopian conquest, thus extending his possibilities of gaining financial aid for developing the new addition to his empire.

3—Britain in return will regain the undisputed leadership in the Mediterranean and Mussolini's promise to quit stirring up Arab unrest against Britain and to withdraw gradually his forces from Spain;

4—France, momentarily alarmed at the strain on the Anglo-French entente but burdened by domestic financial and labor troubles, will continue to follow London's leadership and will benefit alike by the possible Mediterranean settlement and the possibility that Hitler will not resort to drastic action against her ally, Czechoslovakia.

Give Germany Sway.

5—Britain, with no important stake in Central Europe, will let Germany extend her economic and political sway there as long as it does not point westward:

6—Germany, with more to gain from this than from a return of her pre-war colonies, will be content to wait for a colonial settlement in the distant future but will continue her demands for home consumption.

What effect British Prime Minister Chamberlain's new policy will have on the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo anti-Communist alliance and Anglo-American relations was a subject of wide speculation.

Political quarters saw some significance in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's assertion that Germany regards herself as a neutral observer in the far east. He coupled this, however, with a blessing for Japan.

Some Paris observers forecast a reorganization of the French government as the next move in the international situation with France pulled to the right by the shift in British policy. France has come to accept collaboration with Britain—on almost any terms—as her sole safeguard in Europe.

Germany Orders Term Of Work for Girls

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Field Marshal General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Adolf Hitler's right-hand man, today prescribed a virtually compulsory one-year term of farm or household work for unmarried women under 25 seeking jobs in private or public business.

For them to obtain civil service work he ordered they must show an entry in their labor passbooks indicating fulfillment of that requirement. The announced purpose was to alleviate a scarcity of [illegible] and farm workers.

Statements Show Sharpness Of Eden-Chamberlain Break

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The following parallel highlights of their statements to the house of commons today show how complete was the break between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and his resigned foreign secretary, Anthony Eden:

EDEN—"This country should not plunge into negotiations . . . because one party indicated it was 'now or never.'"

CHAMBERLAIN—"Mr. Eden represented that the Italian government called upon us to enter upon conversations now or never and that we are being asked to submit to these threats. There is nothing in any of the communications to justify that description."

EDEN—"There has been too keen a desire on our part to make terms with others rather than that others should make terms with us."

CHAMBERLAIN—"The question is whether we are to enter upon negotiations or refuse even to discuss."

EDEN—"I do not believe we can make progress in European appeasement . . . if we allow the impression to gain currency abroad that we yield to constant pressure."

CHAMBERLAIN—"Do you think we shall obtain peace by continuing the vendetta and even refusing to talk?"

EDEN—"Agreements that are worth while are never made on the basis of threats."

CHAMBERLAIN—A rebuff to Italian "desires that conversations should start at once . . . would have been followed by an intensification of anti-British feeling in Italy rising to such a point that ultimately war between us might become inevitable."

Chamberlain Speech Calms Public; He Is Expected To Retain Power

By H. J. J. SARGINT.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(By Wireless)—London today was a great sounding board of conflicting political rumors. The crisis arising from the resignation of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden looked this morning darker and more dangerous for the conservatives than it appears this evening.

It was thought at first that a strong revulsion of public feeling in favor of Eden, who is regarded in England as the great apostle of the League of Nations, might so shake the government of Neville Chamberlain as to induce the prime minister, for his own safety, to test public opinion by the supreme measure of a general election.

It is remarkable to note how the Liberal newspapers, notably the News-Chronicle, and the Radical Daily Herald came out strongly in favor of the Tory former foreign secretary.

The Liberal Star this evening is almost lyrical. It talks of "the great surrender" and describes the resignation of Eden as "combining the sympathy evoked by the fall of a romantic figure with the emotions stirred by a great clash of principle."

It may now be said with some assurance that there will be no general election, and that the vast bulk of Nationalists, whether Conservatives, Liberals or Laborites, will stand behind Chamberlain.

This feeling increased after the prime minister's speech in the house of commons today, when he disclosed that Italy had in fact agreed to the British formula for withdrawal of volunteers from Spain, and, in reply to a question, added that the Italian ambassador, Count Dino Grandi, had been informed of that from Rome on Sunday morning, a good many hours before Eden's final decision to resign.

Chamberlain's speech had a remarkably soothing and calming ef-

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight struck a bargain with Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy as Anthony Eden, driven into resigning his post as foreign secretary, berated his former cabinet colleagues in commons for "yielding" to Il Duce's threats.

Chamberlain indicated that British recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia will follow quickly, for "I feel that such recognition is an essential factor to a general appeasement."

"Masterful Stroke."

Some members believed that Chamberlain, by a masterful stroke, had taken the wind out of Eden's defense of his resignation, but it developed that the prime minister is willing to draft a formal pact of friendship with Italy, with the withdrawal of "volunteers" to follow.

Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent undersecretary of state for foreign affairs and Britain's new "roving ambassador," may resign, according to rumors going about the house of commons and printed by the political correspondent of the Daily Express.

Vansittart, for many years a close friend of retiring British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, had been mentioned as the British negotiator of the proposed Anglo-Italian accord. He has been permanent undersecretary of state for foreign affairs since 1930.

Broken Up By Police.

An angry crowd of several hundred heavily sprinkled with Communists and shouting "Chamberlain must go!" late tonight burst into the lobby of the house of commons where shortly before Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain defended during a fiery debate his stand in the crisis precipitated by Captain Anthony Eden's resignation as foreign secretary.

The same unruly crowd that invaded the house of commons lobby had gathered at the gates of par-

Missing High School Girl, Boy Found by FBI Agents

Pair Brought to Washington for Questioning But Are Later Released.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Justice Department officials said today they had located Lois Simms, 15-year-old Hyattsville, Md., high school girl, who disappeared from her home a week ago.

Director J. Edgar Hoover, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the girl and Clay Cook, Riverdale, Md., youth, were found near Purcellville, Va., and brought back to the capital for questioning.

Later in the day Hoover ordered the pair released. It had been determined, he said, by Acting District Attorney David A. Pine that no federal law had been violated.

RICHMOND TO GRANT $2,000 EXEMPTIONS

AUGUST, Feb. 21.—(AP)—C. A. Steed, tax receiver of Richmond county, said today the county would allow the $2,000 exemption for homesteads on assessed valuation.

Mr. Steed's statement means that in Richmond county a $4,000 home would be exempt from taxation, except for a 2-mill school bond tax.

Richmond county assesses on a basis of approximately 50 per cent, he said.

The local receiver said he was following the intent of the law that assessments be made as in the past.

"A proper program of classification," he explained, "will be instrumental in reducing the number of escapes."

Pointing out that convict guards are often of a "low type," the penologist indorsed a proposed program which would set up definite qualifications and a training school for wardens.

The proposal also was made that Georgia abandon the use of stripes as a uniform for convicts except for disciplining purposes.

Rehabilitation Camps.

Governor Rivers urged the ultimate establishment of "rehabilitation camps" similar to the CCC camps, where former prisoners would receive a minimum salary and "learn to handle money before being released upon society."

Declaring that "you can't build stamina in a man by holding him by a chain," Bates said the tendency over the country was to abolish "chain gangs."

Members of the penal board made plans yesterday for two inspection tours which would take them into Florida, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

In Florida they plan to examine that state's unwalled penitentiary at Raiford, while in Alabama they would inspect the state prison at Kilby and the federal reformatory at Montgomery. On the northern tour they expect to study various penal institutions and confer with federal prison officials in Washington.

Wants "Honor Camps."

James C. Davis, executive secretary of the Prison Industries Reorganization Administration, said Georgia should make its county convict camps "honor units" similar to those in California. He said prisoners were confined to the California camps only after they had demonstrated they had earned this privilege.

It was explained that an abandoned CCC camp might be obtained for a "test honor camp" in Georgia. Governor Rivers said such camps would serve as the intermediary step between the penitentiary and parole.

A. R. Dorsen, president and general manager of High's and foreman of the Fulton county September-October grand jury, which sounded the call for prison reforms, voiced a plea for a campaign to enroll the public co-operation in the program, particularly in eliminating all objectionable features of the chain gangs when they are converted into public work camps.

Bates termed Georgia's prison reform program "significant and courageous" and praised Governor Rivers for having the "courage and foresight to tackle Georgia's penal problems."

He advocated prison industrial activities, saying such a program "would take the private profit out of penal affairs."

"The safest and sanest thing to do in penal work is to attempt to redirect activities of the prisoners to put them back on the road to being good citizens," Bates said.

Rivers, Bates Confer on State's Penal Reforms

Governor Rivers hears about penal reforms from Sanford Bates, former director of the United States Bureau of Prisons. The Governor, seated, listens intently as Bates, one of the best known penologists in the country, offers suggestions to further Georgia's new deal for convicts. Bates praised the state's efforts to humanize treatment of its prisoners.

Press of State Continues To Urge Georgia Need To Plant-to-Prosper

More Editors Indorse Program of Constitution and Emphasize How It Will Improve Living at Home and Bring Greater Revenue to Planters.

Additional praise was given The Atlanta Constitution's Plant-to-Prosper campaign by Georgia newspapers as they continued to support the program and to urge planters in their respective circulation areas to join it.

Editor Carl M. Vick, of the South Georgian, Moultrie, Colquitt county, calls for support in an editorial entitled "Let's Do Our P-t." It follows:

"Barring politics, the Plant-to-Prosper campaign of The Atlanta Constitution has created more interest in Georgia than any announcement in recent years. The Governor, university officials, the commissioner of agriculture, banks, newspapers, county agents, home demonstration agents, business men, farmers are all solidly behind the proposal.

Other Prizes Offered.

"Banks and newspapers are offering additional prizes for the farmers in their respective counties. In fact, the whole state seems to be keenly interested. The far-reaching possibilities of the plan are unlimited. Within a few years, when the plan is in full operation, a new day will dawn, not only for the farmers, but for the entire population of the state.

"For many years Colquitt county has been a leader among the counties of the state in agricultural development. Diversification has been our salvation, but there is yet room for improvement. We are convinced that the leaders of Colquitt county will not permit this opportunity to pass without making every effort to reap some of the rewards The Constitution's plan offers."

Eugene Dyar, editor of the Herald, Carnesville, Franklin county:

"The Plant-to-Prosper program sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution is a splendid one and goodness knows Georgia farmers need a little prosperity."

Vast Home Market.

John N. Holder, editor of the Jackson County Herald, Jefferson:

"Georgia's own voracious appetite provides a potential market for many more thousands of carloads of fruits and vegetables than Georgia's own farmers supply—a fact brought out with smashing emphasis recently by figures issued by the Markets News Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"In the Atlanta market alone last year, the figures revealed, 9,786 carloads of the 15,169 carlots unloaded came from other states.

"Georgia farmers provided only the remaining 5,383 carloads!

"Disclosure of these figures served to bring to the attention of Georgia farmers more forcibly than ever the vital need for a live at home agricultural plan such as The Atlanta Constitution recently inaugurated in its Plant-to-Prosper campaign.

"The Plant-to-Prosper campaign, in which Georgia farmers are encouraged to produce their own needs first and then supply the local markets, is designed to curtail the necessity for such importations and to provide planters with ready cash for their own surpluses.

"Every farmer in the state is eligible to compete for The Constitution awards, and at the same time become more economically independent by diversifying crops, conserving soil and improving his own financial status."

State-Wide Interest.

Rush Burton, editor of the Times, Lavonia, Franklin county.

"The Atlanta Constitution's Plant-to-Prosper campaign has created much interest among Georgians. Those who enter are assured the benefits of a good farming program and a prospect of an award based on the profits of the program. Interest is being created all over the state by The Constitution's progressive program."

"Nothing but the highest of praise can be given The Atlanta Constitution for its Plant-to-Prosper program.

"The popular Atlanta daily hit the keynote when it urged the farmers of Georgia to Plant-to-Prosper. If there is any way in the world for the farmers of this state to make a strong comeback, it is through their efforts to produce more foodstuffs on their farms.

New Day for Farming.

"It has been a crying shame for many years that we have been forced to import products into our state that could be grown right here on our own farm. Once the people see the soundness of this program, we believe that they will find farming in Georgia on a new boom.

"The Messenger takes this opportunity of pledging its support to The Constitution in this excellent program and at the same time urge the farmers of Putnam county to enter this contest immediately. Not only do they stand a fine chance of winning a prize, but they will also be undertaking a farming program that will bring results."

RAILROAD VETERAN ENDS LONG SERVICE

Captain James S. Harrison Retires After 45 Years With Southern.

ATHENS, Feb. 21.—Captain James S. Harrison, who, during 45 years of railroading, covered a conservatively estimated 2,340,000 miles, has retired from the world of clicking rails and settled down, with Mrs. Harrison, to make their home here.

During his long rail service, Captain Harrison experienced many freight wrecks, but never during his years as a passenger conductor was he called on to make an accident report, even for a derailment. He was for 28 years a conductor on the Atlanta-Charlotte main line of the Southern Railway System.

Captain Harrison entered railroad service in 1892, when he was 20 years old, and first was a brakeman on the old Elberton Air Line, now a branch of the Southern. He was promoted to conductor four years later. He served on the Athens-Lula run from 1930 to 1935.

Captain Harrison, who was the first child born in Lavonia, is a brother of Walter Harrison, cashier of the Lavonia Bank. He also has a sister, living in Valdosta, and another living in Atlanta. He and Mrs. Harrison were married in 1902.

M'NUTT WILL HAVE 'COMING OUT PARTY'

Indiana Democrats To Present Favorite Son to Political Society Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Indiana Democrats intend to present their favorite son, Paul V. McNutt, to national political society at a gala coming-out party Wednesday.

Of course, if you ask them, they will tell you solemnly that he is not a candidate for the presidency, and, amazed that anyone could hold a contrary thought, assure you that the reception is intended purely and simply as a social affair.

But, in the next breath, they will say that personally they are for McNutt for the presidency, that they hold high hopes for him in 1940, and add that these hopes and Wednesday's party are disassociated utterly.

About 2,700 invitations to the ception have gone out. The invitation list includes cabinet members, assistant cabinet members, diplomats, all members of the Democratic National Committee in Washington and all the Democratic members of the senate and house.

MISSOURIAN NAMED TO MARITIME BOARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt nominated Max O'Rell Truitt, of Missouri, today to be a member of the Maritime Commission.

Senators Shelve Lynch Bill In 58-22 Victory for South

Measure Regarded Doomed for This Session of Congress at Least.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Southern senators who have filibustered against the anti-lynching bill for 29 days won their fight today when the senate adopted, 58 to 22, a motion by Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, to lay the measure aside.

Even Senators Wagner, Democrat, New York, and Van Nuys, Democrat, Indiana, authors of the bill, voted for Barkley's motion when it became apparent that the senate was in no mood to permit the struggle to continue.

Declaring that he had done all he could to obtain a vote on the measure, Barkley said in offering his motion that the country wanted the senate to proceed with other legislation which has been delayed. When his motion carried, the senate took up the $250,000,000 deficiency appropriation for relief.

Preferential Status Lost.

The southerners' victory was even more emphatic than appeared on the surface for, in sending the anti-lynch proposal back to languish on the calendar, the senate stripped it of its preferential status.

Previously it was technically before the senate for a final vote on passage. Now, however, it cannot be brought up again except on a debatable motion, and southern senators said they would filibuster against such a motion, if necessary.

The measure shelved today would have permitted federal prosecution of state officials who wilfully failed to prevent a lynching. It also would have permitted the kin of a lynching victim to recover damages from the county in which the crime occurred.

Tax Revision Bill Favored.

The house ways and means committee tentatively approved a 334-page tax revision bill today after refusing to strip from the measure a special levy on family owned or "closely held" corporations.

Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Kentucky, of the tax subcommittee, said a 15-to-10 vote defeated a motion of Representative Crowther, Republican, New York, to eliminate the special levy.

The committee then went on to write into that levy several modifications to which Democratic members previously had agreed.

Sponsors of the bill said it was intended to clarify the tax laws and remove inequities and hardships. The subcommittee said in a report that the bill should be a "substantial stimulation to business."

Unemployment Plan Asked.

President Roosevelt's request for a $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation, although apparently sure of congressional approval, led to demands in the senate that some permanent solution be found for the unemployment problem.

Senator Bone, Democrat, Washington, argued that unemployment is a "by-product of technological advance" and "we will never be wholly free from it unless and until we accept the urgent necessity of making such changes as will balance the national human economy."

Meantime he proposed that the emergency relief sum be increased to $400,000,000. To this Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, replied that the Works Progress Administration deemed $250,000,000 sufficient.

WESLEYAN AIDED BY SMALL CHURCH

Check for $35 Is Sent To Help Bond Payment.

Said friendly Friendship Baptist church to Methodist Wesleyan College: "Here's $35 to help pay off your bonds."

The Methodist educational institution for women at Macon is in the midst of negotiations to settle an outstanding bonded indebtedness incurred during the expansion program several years ago.

Sunday, Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, was speaking at Sunday services at Friendship Baptist church, near Fairburn.

He suggested it would be "a fine thing" to take a special collection for Wesleyan's bond payment campaign. The small church, with a resident membership of about 30, contributed $35.

As he mailed the check to President Dice R. Anderson, of Wesleyan, Dr. Collins said he hoped other churches would follow suit.

The "Against a Spring Primary" committee of the league was present and completed plans for a 10-day campaign before the March 2 primary, at which time a referendum for or against a spring primary will appear on the ballot.

Miss Eleanore Raoul, chairman of the committee, said, "Unless voters thoroughly understand how to scratch the ballots they will vote the way they do not intend to. The ballots will be marked 'for a spring primary' and 'against a spring primary.' It is our aim that voters scratch out 'for a spring primary.'"

Any organization wishing speakers to attend their meetings should call Mrs. Hyatt at the league headquarters, it was announced. Mrs. Fred Scanling was named head of the office committee to be in charge of office headquarters which will be open all day. There were also appointments to the telephone committee.

LAWRENCE CAMP STARTS NEW TERM

U.S. District Attorney Sworn in by Underwood.

Lawrence S. Camp officially began his second term as United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia yesterday, taking the oath of office before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

After the ceremony in his chambers, Judge Underwood said, "I want to congratulate you and the United States government on this appointment. The court wishes to express its appreciation of your very able administration of this office during the past four years."

It was pointed out that for the 1935 October term of district court there were 221 cases involving 350 defendants on the docket while for the March term of 1938 only 64 cases involving 115 defendants are on the calendar. The reduction was attributed to "keeping the calendar current."

DATES ANNOUNCED FOR RADIO EXAMS

Changes in Licenses Third Class Revealed.

Dates for radio operators examinations and changes in licenses issued radiotelephone third-class operators were announced yesterday by the district office of the Federal Communications Commission.

Examinations for all class licenses will be held each Tuesday and Friday, except national holidays, at 411 Federal Annex here. Examinations will be given in Savannah on appointment, it was announced.

A change in the third-class license makes it mandatory that stations manned solely by personnel holding a radiottelephone third-class operator license must be supervised and maintained from a technical point of view by personnel holding a second-class license either radiotelephone or radiotelegraph. The change, however, removes the station power limitation and permits the third-class operators to use more than 50 watts.

BILL ASKS 'TEETH' IN WAR PROFIT BAN

Withrow Would Levy on 95 Per Cent of New Income.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Wisconsin Progressives launched a move today to "put teeth" in the Hill-Sheppard bill to prevent wartime profiteering, advocating a virtually confiscatory tax.

Representative Withrow, Progressive, Wisconsin, drafted the proposed amendment, which he has suggested to the military affairs committee. It would levy on manufacturers of armaments and implements of war a tax of 95 per cent of their income above a three-year peacetime average.

G. N. CONINE FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for George N. Conine, 33, victim of an accidental pistol shot Sunday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Spring Hill with the Rev. Firely Baum and the Rev. J. P. Stephens officiating. Burial will be in Forest Park Primitive Baptist churchyard.

Mr. Conine was struck by a shot his partner, W. L. Smith, Ellenwood lunchstand operator, fired Sunday to "scare" a group of boys stoning the lunchstand, Sheriff E. L. Adamson, of Clayton county, said. He said Mr. Conine's death was "purely accidental" and that Smith was entirely blameless.

The sheriff and Coroner J. L. Reeves questioned eyewitnesses and said an inquest will be unnecessary.

NORRIS SAYS MEASURE WOULD BE "INFLICTION"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, told the senate today the anti-lynching bill would be "an infliction instead of a blessing."

The measure would tend toward revival of the sectional bitterness that existed during reconstruction days, Norris said, praising the south for its recovery from the desolation of the Civil War.

At first, he said, he had not looked upon the bill with disfavor, but "when I look over the history of my country, when I see the condition that exists now, I do not want to take up this burden with which the people of the south have done so well. I think I know that I would fail where they have succeeded."

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 22, 1938.

THE FOCUS SHIFTS

Once more the focus of world anxiety turns to Central Europe and to Britain. Adolf Hitler, timing his program perfectly, has seized control of Austria and has issued a challenge to the world, in unmistakable terms, that Germany intends to regain her war-lost colonies and her place of leadership among the powers.

There is no possible room for doubt, after careful reading of the Hitler speech delivered Sunday, that the next move by Der Feuhrer will be aimed at Czechoslovakia. His speech outlines an ambitious plan by which, through the spread of Nazi rule, he hopes to re-establish Germany as an empire of Central Europe equalling, or surpassing in power, the greatest strength the pre-war Germany ever knew.

In the face of this ultimatum to the world, the British cabinet splits on policy. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden resigns and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain finds his government precipitated into a crisis only equaled by that of 1914, when Britain made the momentous decision to declare war with the Germany of Kaiser Wilhelm.

France, the long-time ally and friend of Britain, trembles for her own safety, seeing a future of British conciliation to the dictatorship countries and greater danger to herself from her historic enemy, Germany.

It must be remembered, in viewing the new European crisis, that it is impossible to acquire a fair view without consideration of the situation in the Far East. The two problems are so closely interrelated that the outcome of one depends upon the other, almost entirely.

Prime Minister Chamberlain is following a policy of conciliation in Europe in order to make sure of peace on that continent until the Sino-Japanese situation draws to a conclusion. Britain faces too great a threat to her territories in the east and the Antipodes to permit possibility of a war which would engage her main resources in Europe. The menace of Japan, victorious in China and determined on a policy of "Asia for the Asiatics," compels concentration of British power in that quarter. She can tolerate no entanglements in Europe which might weaken her strength at Singapore, Hongkong and on all the oceanways of the Eastern Hemisphere.

Anthony Eden was the symbol of British antipathy to dictatorships. He was committed to a policy that sought always to restrain Hitler and Mussolini, to combat by every resource available the spread of the Nazi and Fascist ideology.

The issue in the present crisis, insofar as Britain is concerned, is whether that nation is to challenge the growing power of the two great totalitarian states, or whether she will bow to German demands and accept the power of the Nazis as something accomplished and to be accepted regardless of democratic theory.

It is likely that Britain, led by Chamberlain, will swallow the German program, in order to concentrate upon the problem of the Far East, daily growing more serious.

It is too early, at this stage, to speculate upon what, if any, possible effect the rapidly changing European picture may have upon the United States and this country's role in international affairs.

A California oil firm has drilled a hole more than two miles into the ground. So far no actress for the Scarlett O'Hara role has been struck.

FRANCIS WEST CLARKE

The death of Francis West Clarke, executive editor of The Constitution, constitutes a personal tragedy too deep to every one who knew him, worked with him and loved him, to permit altogether coherent evaluation of his loss.

One of the most brilliant newspapermen of the times, his death came at early age, when he was at the height of his ability. His going removes from Georgia journalism a vital force that had held a place of leadership during the years while evolution was carrying the profession forward with longest strides.

Francis Clarke, son of a former editor of The Constitution, had grown up with the paper. For more than a quarter century he had centered every activity of his life upon this organization. His was the type of genius that knows no limitations of effort. When the good of the paper was involved no undertaking was too hard, no hours of work too long.

His career was a succession of promotions, through the different steps of a news and editorial organization. He served as state news editor, as city editor, managing editor, assistant to the editor and publisher and, finally, executive editor.

Upon the death of the late Clark Howell, in November, 1936, Mr. Clarke took over the direction of the news and editorial departments. During the all-to-brief months since then his counsel and advice have contributed a large part to whatever worth-while things the paper has been privileged to achieve.

But it is as friend, more than as newspaperman, that he is chiefly mourned today. Always, no matter where his career led him, Francis Clarke was the quintessence of unaffected comradeship. Men in every walk of life were proud to call him friend and every one of them knew that his friendship was that ultimate in rich human contact, the sincere understanding of a loyal and straightforward soul.

The record of his life provides the best tribute to his ability; the recollections that remain in the minds and hearts of his friends the best accolade to his character.

'Tis sweet, as year by year we lose
How grows in Paradise our store.

COSMETICS AND SAFETY

Ever since the days when Cleopatra plucked an eyebrow and daubed red tint upon her face to enrapture Antony, the result of women's beautification has ofttimes been death and disaster to man. Antony lost a battle, an army, an empire and his life. Today many a Tom Smith has lost home, reputation and life because a woman's reddened lips proved stronger than the precepts of the law.

Now, however, comes a new cosmetic menace to life and limb, this time upon the highways of the nation.

Lighting engineers, fighting to secure greater safety for automobile traffic at night, have discovered that sodium vapor lamps, placed at dangerous street or highway intersections, have been remarkably effective in lowering the mortality rates at those points.

But the yellowish color of these lights turns the rouge upon a woman's face to a greenish-purple tinge and the dear creatures are protesting, vigorously. What are a few lives, snuffed out in the twisted wreckage of smashed cars, when weighed against the wrath of outraged beauty?

Detroit has tried the sodium vapor lamps more freely than any other city and officials there say they will use them to even greater extent, despite the feminine screams of anguished cosmeticism. It may be tough when election time rolls around, with every woman wielding the power of the ballot.

The problem of night lighting is one of the most pressing in the general effort to make the nation's highways safer. It is admitted that for safety there must be some form of illumination other than that from the headlights of the cars themselves. Efforts to make these headlights less glaring and blinding upon approaching drivers are helping, but the main problem is the stationary lighting of the streets and roads.

Many urge that trunk highways at least should be artificially lighted, with special emphasis upon curves and intersections. Yet it is doubtful if any state can afford to install and maintain such lights over an appreciable highway mileage.

In one large city, however, it has been discovered that it is not necessary to increase the lighting equipment to achieve good results. In that city they merely hung the street lights four feet higher and equipped them with polished metal reflectors, thus increasing the visibility from 10 to 20 times. With the result that at these better-lighted points the average number of persons killed, which had previously been in the ratio of seven for each one killed in the daytime, dropped to 1.6 for every person killed in daylight.

Although the amount of traffic on the highways after dark is only 25 per cent that of the daylight hours, more than 60 per cent of fatalities occur at night.

Some day, perhaps, every main highway will be artificially lighted, making it as safe at night as at day. The expense involved is so great, however, as to appear insurmountable at this time.

In the meantime, lighting at danger points and intersections, better automobile headlights and greater care by those who drive at night, are the only feasible means of correcting the tragic evil.

Police everywhere find that confidence men are once more on the make. So much for those foes of the new abundance who say there is no confidence.

We don't know if the Nazi faithful feel sufficiently sure of their ground to nickname their gods, but over here a big shot with Goering's contours would be Babe.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

RAIL REORGANIZATION WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—An elaborate plan for a special court of railroad reorganization, with dictatorial authority over all roads in receivership, has been prepared in the inner circles of the New Deal's left wing. Securities and Exchange Commissioner Jerome N. Frank was the original author of the plan, which is so highly thought of that it has already been drafted into bill form.

The railroad problem is the biggest and the most pressing now facing the administration. The existence of the Frank plan is unusually significant, because, after months of paltering, the problem of the roads will be dealt with this week at a White House conference. The Frank plan and bill are almost certain to be presented to the conference by one or another of the friendly participants.

A companion to the plan and bill is another scheme for a special railroad unification authority, to force mergers on foolishly competing roads. This is also popular among the New Deal left-wingers, who are unanimous in believing that, if inaction is greatly prolonged, the whole railroad structure is likely to fall around the administration's ears. It is probable that the unification authority scheme will also be presented at the White House conference.

STARK FACT The New Deal left wing has good reason for being acutely worried by the condition of the railroads. At present, 19 Class 1 carriers have filed reorganization applications with the Interstate Commerce Commission and the courts. Not one of them has emerged reorganized, although some of the applications were filed several years ago.

Thirty-four carriers of all classes have applied, and the three or four which have actually been re-established on new and sounder lines are small and relatively unimportant. It is estimated that even if the whole ICC and court reorganization procedure is overhauled and speeded up to the utmost, 15 months will still be the minimum period for a reorganization. And as the weeks go by, reports grow more insistent of many additional major roads preparing reorganization applications.

The net of the whole thing is that, freight increase or no freight increase, the railroad structure seems certain to continue in a state of suspended animation unless positive action is taken. That at least is the view the government economists and railroad experts now take.

Considering the immense commitments of the railroads, and the huge investments in them now held by such institutions as savings banks and insurance companies, clearing the railroading air is vitally necessary. Such New Deal conservatives as Jesse H. Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and such less than conservative fellows as Mr. Frank are entirely agreed that a national transportation policy is an immediate objective.

CLEVER SCHEMES In detail, the railroad reorganization court idea is roughly as follows: Congress would provide for a court of one or three judges, sitting in Washington, with exclusive jurisdiction over railroad reorganizations. Reorganizations now in the ICC would be transferred to the court, and all future reorganization applications would be made to it.

In order to hasten procedure, the court would be given the right of direct appeal to the supreme court. The court would be provided with a large technical personnel, made up of experts from the ICC, the SEC, the railroad retirement board, the RFC and other interested government agencies.

The court would be directed to prepare reorganization plans itself, and the government, as creditor of the roads, would also be permitted to offer plans, either through the RFC or the Treasury.

Obviously, the whole purpose of the court scheme is to create a centralized, distinctly despotic legal agency which can get the roads out of their present mire as rapidly and as efficiently as possible. The same purpose lies behind the scheme for a consolidation authority.

UNIFICATION BY BRIBERY The scheme for a special railroad unification authority runs counter to the plan previously prepared by ICC Chairman Walter M. W. Splawn, by which a unification board would be established under ICC influence.

The special unification authority scheme has not been reduced to final form as yet. One group of its adherents favors a sort of railroad economic council, with all interested parties represented. Another group wants a single czar to rule the authority. Both groups desire to give the authority power to enforce unifications wherever necessary.

The most curious feature of the scheme is that temporary government bribes to railroads accepting unification are being seriously pondered. The bribes would be offered in the form of guarantees of the fixed charges which are now the chief railroad headache.

Of course, both reorganization court and unification authority are both very much in the planning stage. While they will be discussed at the forthcoming White House conference, there is no certainty that a majority of the conferees will find them appealing. And if they are ever presented to congress, it must be remembered that they will run into the most violent opposition from such vested interests as the ICC, those wings they clip, and all-powerful railroad labor, whose multiplied jobs they threaten.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Death is beautiful.
The greatest adventure
Of life;
Peace after trouble,
Rest, and full surcease
From strife.
Those left behind weep
While the one gone on
Seems to smile:
Life's span is so short
When all eternity waits
For us, in just
A little while.

There Lived A Man—

You have all known, perhaps, one of those rare characters who was possessed of such charm and likeableness that everyon e who ever met him felt that here, beyond doubt, was a friend.

One of those men who inevitably filled the role of big brother to scores upon scores of weaker souls.

One who was father confessor and adviser in time of deepest trouble and one whose counsel could always be depended upon, no matter how dark the hour, to bring a new ray of hope into a troubled heart.

Such a man was Francis West Clarke, executive editor of The Constitution, whose death on Sunday night is too recent for the constriction in all our throats, the moisture in all our eyes, to have passed.

For All The Staff.

In this column, today, I presume to attempt to write on behalf of every member of The Constitution's staff. There isn't a man, woman or boy, from pressroom in the basement to photographic department on the sixth floor, who does not subscribe, I know, to those emotions I am trying, somehow, to express.

There is throughout the building an unaccustomed quiet. We all go about those duties which in a daily newspaper office must be done, even on such a day, with hushed manner. Even the mechanical things, the typewriters and the tapping teletypes and the machines of the composing room seem, in imagination, as though muffled.

And faces are strained and set; lips set firm to keep from quivering, eyes hard, distant, to keep them dry.

Not As Newspaperman—

It is unnecessary here to speak of Francis Clarke as newspaperman. His career speaks, on that score, in words more forceful than any I may command.

Hence it is of Francis Clarke, the magnificent friend, that I would write.

It is 26 years since I first met him in this office. Since then we worked together, struggled together, wise-cracked together and, on occasion, quarreled together. Something so fine is gone, today, that this building will always, as long as I shall live, hold a sense of vacancy. There will be no morning, in all the future, when imagination will not picture him, smiling and kind, here to start the day.

And I know, even though my personal sense of loss is so keen, that it is paralleled in the hearts of all these others who knew and loved him too.

An Ever Present Help in Trouble.

Francis Clarke was, beyond all other men I have ever known, an ever present help in time of trouble.

Today we know greatest trouble. And he is not here to help.

But, perhaps, he is with us. These old walls are too impregnated with his grand spirit for him to be far distant, now or ever.

And so, in bidding an earthly adieu, the thought comes that it is not, really, farewell.

For he has left behind a memory and an inspiration we can honor best by carrying on in the way he would desire.

So be it.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

And It Appears To Suit Citizens KANSAS CITY, Feb. 21. Here is a paradox for you. Tom Pendergast, the Democratic boss of Kansas City, gives good, rotten government, and runs a good, rotten city whose conventional Americans of the home-loving, baby-having, 100 per cent type, live on terms of mutual toleration with wide open vice and gambling.

Kansas City has been described as an overgrown trading post on the frontier, but that figure does justice to neither the facts nor the town. She is not a post at all, but a great city whose reputation has suffered from the inclusion in her name of the word "Kansas," a word signifying thin-lipped social bleakness, prohibition, and an aversion to the pleasures of others. Kansas City is more like Paris. The stuff is there—the gambling joints and the brothels, including among the latter, a restaurant conducted in imitation of that one in Paris, more haunted by American tourists than the Louvre, where the waitresses wear nothing on before and a little less than half of that behind.

Mr. Pendergast is an old-time saloonkeeper, and similar in some respects to Frank Hague, of Jersey City. He is religious, rich and a benevolent despot in his relations with his loyal subjects, but he lacks Hague's vindictiveness toward those who have the audacity to fight him. They differ again in their attitude toward prostitution, for Hague will not tolerate the business at all, whereas Pendergast treats it as part of the routine commerce of a big city.

Figure It Out If You Can His men claim that he absolutely refused to let his organization accept any graft, or "lub" as it is locally known, from prostitutes or brothel keepers, and would break any subordinate who should; but, of course, that is only their side of the story, hard enough to believe in any case, but the more so when the same men claim that he also forbids the collection of any "lug" from the gamblers.

Although he put off his apron and laid aside his beer mallet long ago, Mr. Pendergast is still operating in liquor and beer, being now in the wholesale way of business as agent for various lines of merchandise, which naturally enjoy a strong preference in the cafes and saloons of the merry city on the edge of the Kansas desert. He generously permits other brands to be sold, but the loyal saloonkeeper knows whose line of grog and brew is whose.

Mr. Pendergast also sells ready-mixed concrete in vast quantities for public and private works, but at any suggestion of monkey business, he is prepared to argue that his concrete is good concrete, and that his prices are the lowest and his facilities the best.

Police Force Is Political The police force is entirely political, and every cop is beholden to some leader for his job, and removable or otherwise punishable on the demand of the same one who appointed him, subject, however, in extreme cases, to Mr. Pendergast's decision on appeal.

But in spite of all this—and this is what drives the opposition wild—Mr. Pendergast runs a good town, with efficient public services and with comparatively little violent crime. Kansas City has adopted the old St. Paul and Toledo system of permitting criminals to relax and frolic without molestation, with the understanding that their activities while in town must be entirely social and no way professional.

Of course, the machine will steal an election if necessary or just for practice, and as a demonstration of efficient loyalty to Mr. Pendergast. Sometimes the boys steal when there is no need of stealing, and some outlandish totals have been rolled up when it would have been wiser to stand on an honest plurality.

Question Box On the Bible

By W. L. PETTINGILL.

THE JUDGMENT DAY.

Q. Will you please explain the judgment day? When, where and why, if the saved go straight to heaven when they die?

A. There are several judgment days because there are several judgments. The idea of a general judgment is unscriptural. On the Cross of Calvary the Lord Jesus Christ died as a sacrificial substitute for our sins, and those who have taken their place under the shelter of His shed blood are born again and forever delivered from the penalty of sin. Therefore they "go straight to heaven when they die," being absent from the body and present with the Lord (2 Cor. 5:8).

But these same born again ones, after being caught up to meet the Lord in the air (1 Thess. 4:13-18), must appear before the judgment seat of Christ to have their works brought into judgment (2 Cor. 5:10.) Those whose works are approved will receive a reward in addition to the gift of salvation already received, and those whose works are burned suffer loss, though they themselves shall be saved, yet so as by fire (1 Cor. 3:11-15).

Then when the Lord returns to the earth at His glorious second advent to set up His kingdom upon the earth He will sit upon the throne of His glory and summon before Him the nations then living upon the earth and judge them for their treatment of His brethren, meaning Israel. This judgment is described in Matthew 25:31-46.

The judgment of the lost dead is described in Revelation 20: 11-15, and at that time whosoever is not found written in the book of life is to be cast into the lake of fire.

The Man Who Has Doubled His Fortune Isn't Enviable if He Had Only a Nickel

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

An English journalist named Edgar Snow spent many months in northwest China, taking pictures and making notes, and brought out the first authentic report of what Chinese Reds have done and are doing.

"Red," by the way, is merely a word of convenience, meaning different things in different lands. As "Communism" seldom means community ownership or even Socialism, but a local conception of social-reformism, so "Red" is used as a synonym for rebel, and is applied to all who oppose the existing order, whatever their beliefs or behavior.

The Reds of China asked Mr. Snow many questions concerning the outside world. One of these that he found difficult to answer was something like this: "If the people of England and America are free, as you say, why is it that these countries do not have Communist governments?"

Every man, no matter how well-informed he may be, unconsciously measures all people in his own half-bushel. He assumes that people in other lands feel as he does, and think as he does, and are situated as he is.

So the Red leader who asked the question, knowing almost nothing of other lands, assumed that workers and peasants everywhere suffer the same wrongs that embittered him.

Speaking for America, Mr. Snow might have answered: "A naked man may plead for a cotton garment, but one clothed in silk would not exchange it for cotton. You Reds have achieved self-respect, freedom and equality, but Americans have had these things for generations. Because you have climbed far above your former state, you think Americans should wish to be like you; but you have yet far to climb before you reach the level where they are."

If Chinese Reds saw a poor American worker living in a house with a wood floor and glass windows; burning coal and using electric lights; eating meat and wheat bread; sending his children to school and facing every man as an equal, they would think him one of the "oppressor" class, for it would seem impossible that a mere worker should have such wealth.

When Americans long for the advantages attained by the oppressed in other lands, it is like a free man envying the slave who has broken one of his chains.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Ships That Passed.

NEW YORK—It was a long time before I knew that the man with the frayed cuffs and the battered old hat, who sometimes joined our little group at the cafe in Paris was the Soviet ambassador. He was interested in gathering data on the life of the Count of Saint-Simon and since Saint-Simonism always interested me deeply, I could from time to time come to his aid with some pamphlets or rare little volumes that I picked up for a few sous in the bookstalls along the Seine Quai.

And then suddenly he gave me his address and I noticed that it was that of the Soviet embassy on the Rue de Grenelle . . . and my eyes were opened. Christian Rakovsky was a man of vast culture and I always found him pensive and serious. He was suddenly recalled and I just learned the other day that on the day he was shot as a spy and a wrecker and a Fascist-traitor he had nearly completed his monumental work on Saint-Simon. He asked for a month of grace to finish the work. The GRU denied his request and even destroyed before killing him, the scholarly efforts of a lifetime.

One of the strangest figures to come into the newspaper bureau in the days back in Paris was Ignace Trebitsch-Lincoln. A son of Jewish parents, Trebitsch, when I knew him, had been a Catholic priest in Vienna, an Anglican clergyman in London, a member of parliament in Westminster, a secret agent for Germany in the U. S. A. and Canada during the World War, secretary to Leon Trotsky, political adviser to the Nanking government and something or other at the court of Afghanistan under Amannullah. He disappeared for long periods, but whenever he came back the story of his experiences sounded more incredible.

Once he dropped in from India and began sending frantic telegrams to Lloyd George, asking the former premier to intercede with the authorities for a landing-permit in England. His only son, found guilty of murder, had been sentenced to die on the gallows. Trebitsch had rushed all the way from Indo-China to have a last word with his boy. Lloyd George did not reply and Trebitsch tried every one of his former parliamentary colleagues in turn. Without avail. I sat with him waiting for the dawn when his son would be hanged. Trebitsch kept his watch in his hand and paced the floor. When the first streaks of light appeared in the east the tension became unbearable.

Trebitsch Disappears.

Thereafter (it was in 1930) Trebitsch disappeared. In the summer in 1935 he was back, but this time he was wearing the yellow robe of a Buddhist monk. I noticed him at the wicket in the North station buying a ticket for Berlin.

"I see," I said to him, "that you have gone back to the yarmalke," pointing to his tight-fitting skullcap, of a kind that his Jewish ancestors must have worn in Hungary.

"I announce you," replied Trebitsch gravely, "the doctrine which is glorious in the beginning, glorious in the middle and glorious at the end, the Gospel of Our Lord Buddha." . . .

Trebitsch said he was on his way to see the Fuehrer and the leaders of the neo-Pagan movement in the Reich. "Buddhism," he explained, "is a purely Aryan religion and if the German people want to have done with that Jewish cult known as Christianity—"

I wished him the best of luck in his interview with Hitler, but never learned how he fared.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIS D. NEWTON

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

I have just finished another reading of Washington's farewell address. Years ago, when I tried to teach history at Mercer University, I asked the young men in my classes to join me in a covenant that as long as we lived we would read the farewell address every February 22. I have kept that covenant. I intend to keep it. My one greatest wish for America today is that every citizen in our nation would read that surpassing statement of the greatest man we have yet produced.

Senator William E. Borah, the ablest man in public life in our nation today, in a speech in the United States senate, November 19, 1919, said:

"His (Washington's) judgment and poise in the hour of turmoil and peril, his courage and vision in times of adversity, his firm grasp of fundamental principles, his almost inspired power to penetrate the future and read the result, the effect of policies, have never been excelled, if equaled, by any of the world's commonwealth builders. In exaltation of moral purpose, in the unselfish character of his work, in the durability of his policies, in the permanency of the institutions which he more than any one else called into effect, Washington's service to mankind stands out separate and apart in a class by itself. The work of Washington is still the most potent influence for the advancement of civilization and freedom of the race. If we abandon his leadership and teachings, we will go backward. We may be thrown back now and then by sinister forces, but we will return to the faith of the fathers. The noble face of the Father of his Country, so familiar to every boy and girl, will call those who come to these halls of reckoning. The people of our beloved country will finally speak. America will continue her mission in the cause of peace, of freedom, and of civilization."

I have a feeling that America is slowly but surely awakening to what has been going on lately at home and abroad, and in this awakening will return to the faith of the fathers—to the doctrines of liberty, calmly accepting all the implications thereof. It is time we were through with panaceas culled from Karl Marx with their smell of regimentation all up and down the line. It is time we were recognizing again the basic principles of liberty by which every man, woman and child may go confidently forward in the fulfillment of God's purpose in and through them in the building of a civilization based on the eternal principles of honest work, unmolested, untrammeled, unfettered.

Robbery Theory Is Offered In Slaying of Foe of Nazis

Woman Says Dr. Sammet Took Her to Theater Night He Was Killed.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(AP)—A theory that Dr. Max Bernhard Sammet had been waylaid by robbers after a date with a girl acquaintance developed today from the investigation of the mysterious slaying of the German expatriate.

Miss Edna Anderson, 28, an X-ray technician at the Illinois Research hospital, told Detective Frank Slattery the dentist escorted her to a theater and a tavern Saturday night, brought her home about 11:30 o'clock and departed for his hotel.

His body—skull fractured and bullet wounds in the neck and head—was found under the front steps of an abandoned house at 5:10 p. m. Sunday.

The robbery theory was discounted originally because $14 and a wrist watch were not taken, but investigators reported the victim had received checks totaling $300 last week.

9 STATES TO UNITE TO AID HERTY WORK

Southeastern Governors' Conference Supports Move To Back Researches.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Concerted action is to be taken by the nine southeastern states to insure the continued operation of the chemical laboratory maintained at Savannah by Dr. Charles H. Herty, whose successful experiments in making wood pulp out of slash pine already are credited with bringing upward of $100,000,000 in new industries to the south.

Acting on a recommendation by Lawrence Wood Robert Jr., executive director of the Southeastern Governor's Conference, who pointed out that on account of lack of funds there is danger of the Herty laboratory being discontinued, the several southeastern states, through their governors, will undertake to draw up a program for the proper support of the paper and pulp experiments.

To this end, Mr. Robert has just announced here that Governor Fred P. Cone, of Florida, has been designated by the Southeastern Governors' Conference to look into the situation and make a recommendation as to what should be done by the several states in the region. Some plan for joint action by the states in financing the work of the laboratory is expected to result.

Only recently the Georgia legislature made provisions for the continuance of the Herty laboratory, for the present at least, and at the same time set up a foundation, bearing the famous chemist's name, to administer its affairs.

The Herty laboratory at Savannah, Mr. Robert pointed out, includes a miniature paper mill, and has produced not only wood pulp, but newsprint, rayon and many other commodities of great value from the southern pine tree.

STEP TAKEN TO END GRADE CROSSINGS

Planning Division Will Start State-Wide Survey.

A state-wide survey looking toward elimination of grade crossings has been started by the state highway planning division, O. T. Ray, director, said yesterday.

Ray pointed out that more than 50 lives were lost on grade crossings in Georgia last year and that more than 100 persons were injured. His division plans to list the accidents at each crossing during the last five years, to group the crossings according to position and danger, and to make recommendations for their elimination or improvement in protection.

$650,000 IS MAILED TEACHERS, DRIVERS

State Education Department Almost Completes Paying January Salaries.

The State Department of Education yesterday increased January salary payments to public school teachers and bus drivers.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, said approximately $650,000 was mailed to local school authorities and this almost completed the January pay roll of $1,300,000.

Dr. Collins said the checks included those for Chatham county, one of three counties contending they should receive funds on the old school census basis and not on the new teacher-allotment plan instituted by the 1937 educational act.

Chatham authorities sent in a teacher list, Dr. Collins said, on which funds sent that county were figured. The other two counties, Bibb and Richmond, have not sent their lists, Dr. Collins said.

He added that if teacher lists are received from Bibb and Richmond counties, he will make requisition for January funds for them on the teacher-allotment basis.

The state supreme court has for a decision a case in which the Bibb county board of education and orphanage is contesting validity of the new educational act as it applies to the method of paying Bibb county.

SUNK WHISKY CARGO MAY BE RECOVERED

Chicagoan Plans To Salvage Florida River Steamer of 15,000 Gallons.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Frank P. Blair, of Chicago, says he hopes to recover 15,000 gallons of whisky mellowed by 72 years of aging beneath the mud and water of the Apalachicola river in Liberty county, Florida.

Blair told of his plans for salvage of the river steamer Alice on a trip here to seek information on the ship's cargo.

Government records show the Alice was 156 feet long with a beam of 32 feet. It struck a snag and sank about 50 miles north of Apalachicola in October, 1865, on its second trip up river to Columbus.

In 35 Feet of Water.

The master of the Alice then was Captain Hezekiah Wingate, of Columbus. Blair said his information was that Wingate and several of the crew died when the boat went down in 35 feet of water.

Blair also said he was told the Alice carried 300 barrels of whisky. It was additional information on this question that brought him to Columbus to search the files of the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer. He said figuring 50 gallons to the barrel would indicate a cargo of 15,000 gallons, worth around $300,000 now compared to a valuation of around $3,000 in 1865.

Covered by Mud.

Blair said the boat is now under 28 feet of mud and two feet of water, its position having altered the course of the river. He plans to attempt salvage by building a coffer dam.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue in Atlanta said Blair had contacted that office in regard to the operation and that federal representatives would be present.

J. K. ORR SR. MARKS HIS 81ST BIRTHDAY

Civic Leader En Route to Atlanta From Miami.

J. K. Orr Sr., Atlanta civic and industrial leader, was "somewhere between West Palm Beach and Atlanta" yesterday, as gifts addressed to him on his 81st birthday bounced back to senders.

Orr, who lives at 1293 Peachtree street, N. E., arrived in West Palm Beach yesterday morning, having landed at Miami two days ago on a trip homeward from Nassau. He was two days ahead of schedule and gifts sent to Miami did not reach him.

However, members of his family talked with him over the telephone and reported he was in the best of health.

Orr is the oldest living past president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. He was elected in 1901, for a three-year term, and after his retirement from office continued to play a leading role in civic affairs.

Owner of a shoe manufacturing company, he retired two years ago.

FIREMEN DISCUSS ASSOCIATION PLAN

Program Will Be Presented Departments in State.

Plans for forming an association of firemen in Georgia were discussed yesterday by members of the board of directors of the Georgia State Fire College, meeting here.

The directors agreed to present the plans to various fire departments in the state. They pointed out that an association for firemen must be formed before the federal government would allot money to firemen for educational purposes.

The directors also made plans for the annual fire college, which is to be held here May 4-6. It was decided to sponsor zone schools later in the year at Athens, Macon, Rome and Albany.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker, president of the board, led discussions. Present were Chief D. Brosnan, of Albany; Chief E. L. Lester, of Athens; Chief John Monroe, of Savannah; Chief N. L. Barker, of West Point; Chief Horace Taylor, of Rome; Fire Marshal M. H. Carter and Assistant Fire Marshal Harry Phillips, both of Atlanta.

Modest Regard for His Birthday Revealed in Washington's Diary

By WILLIAM M. PINKERTON.

Thus on the night of February 22, 1773, George Washington, a gentleman farmer of Virginia, traced in his diary the dull passing of another day.

Not until the last years of his life did he mention the celebration of his birthday in his scrupulous record of the day's events. Then it was great public feasting that prompted a modest mention of "elegant entertainment."

Year after year in the capital city of Philadelphia bells rang and cannon boomed on February 22 to honor the first president. But later, in a quieter year, George Washington rode from his plantation down to Alexandria for a gala February 11 ball.

Birthdays were confusing for men of that age, because every man had two. Washington himself recorded that he was born on February 11, 1732, but when he was 19 the calendar changed.

The Washington's birthday celebrations across the continent this week will be mild compared to the festivities in Philadelphia and Alexandria after Washington had become the hero of the 13 states.

When New York was the nation's capital, in 1790, the notes in Washington's diary show no sign of a celebration on either of his two birth dates.

"Exercised on horseback in the forenoon," he wrote on February 11, and "the following gentlemen dined here," listing 10 members of the house of representatives.

On February 22, he "set seriously about removing my furniture to my new house." Next day he added that there were "few or no visitors at the levee (where the President met visiting citizens), from the idea of my being on the move."

In Philadelphia, the following year, Washington's 59th birthday was celebrated "with every demonstration of public joy," according to newspaper accounts.

There is no diary for most of these busy years, but in the last year of his presidency, Washington made this simple entry in his daybook on February 22:

"Rain in the night, cloudy forenoon with the wind at east, afterwards at S. W., clear and very fine, went in the evening to an elegant entertainment. Given on my birth night."

The following year, Washington was back in the quiet of Mt. Vernon. There, he followed the "old style" birthday customs of Virginia.

On February 12, 1798 (the 11th being Sunday), he "went with the family to a ball in Alexa given by the citizens of it and its vicinity in commemoration of my birthday."

At the Alexandria celebration of his final birthday in 1799, he wrote, "many manoeuvres were performed by the uniform corps and an elegant ball and supper at night."

SAVANNAH TAX SUIT GOES TO HIGH COURT

Excessive Assessments Are Claims by Real Estate Owners of City.

The city of Savannah brought into the supreme court of Georgia yesterday a legal battle over collection of taxes on real estate. A group of taxpayers contend the city's real estate assessments are discriminatory.

Assistant City Attorney J. C. Hester and Spence M. Grayson, Chatham county legislator, represented the city. The taxpayer group of 70 citizens was represented by Attorney Ferris Cann.

Hester said "the suit was started when the city began tax executions against property for collections on real estate over a period extending from 1932."

He said 30 taxpayers obtained an injunction last year against the mayor and aldermen, board of tax assessors and city marshal to halt the tax executions and the city filed a demurrer. Chatham county superior court overruled the demurrer and the city appealed to the supreme court.

Hester said 40 more taxpayers entered the proceedings as intervenors.

Cann said the taxpayers contended Savannah assessed real estate at 60 to 100 per cent of its value while it assessed personal property from 33 1-3 per cent down to [illegible] per cent on intangibles. They claimed that under the constitution this was illegal and that real estate was bearing a disproportionate burden of taxation.

The city contended the taxpayers did not exhaust a remedy available before the board of tax assessors, sitting as the board of tax appeals, before they came into court with the matter.

Hester estimated about $60,000 was involved.

Codreanu's Choice of Voluntary or Forced Dissolution Is Reported.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Rumania's most powerful pro-Nazi leader tonight agreed to dissolve his "all-for-the-country" party after King Carol offered the nation a new constitution centering greater authority in the crown.

The surprise announcement was made by Cornelius Zelea Codreanu, chief of the Fascist-inclined party.

Among the 100 articles of the new constitution was one preventing anyone from becoming a Premier whose family had not been Rumanian for at least three generations. Codreanu's grandfather was Polish.

Codreanu's Votes.

Codreanu, who organized the semi-military pro-Nazi party when his iron guards were outlawed, received 28 per cent of the votes at the parliamentary elections last December.

He refused to comment on his decision but government circles said the "captain," after the King's proclamation of the new constitution today, had the choice of voluntarily dissolving his party or being forced to do so.

It was rumored Codreanu might leave the country and settle in Italy. His friends said the party's business enterprises, including restaurants and bakeries, would be liquidated immediately.

Adoption of the new constitution was regarded as a foregone conclusion in a plebiscite to be held Thursday, only three days after presentation to the country.

King's Veto Power.

Foremost among the 100 articles of the document were stipulations giving the King absolute veto power over legislation, and authority to appoint halt the senate members; a declaration of equality for all Rumanians without racial distinctions, and religious freedom, wit the Orthodox Rumanian church recognized as the state religion.

Heading the government would be the King and his ministers, with parliament consisting of two chambers, a house and senate, both sharply reduced from their present size.

Deputies would be elected by professions, rather than political parties, according to membership in three guilds—farmer-labor, commerce-industry and intellectual professions.

Half the senate would be appointed by the King, the other half chosen by popular election for nine-year terms.

fect and corrected not only the impression created by Eden's personal statement, which was recognized on all sides as lacking nothing in loyalty to his old chief, but also dissipated the bitterness of Viscount Cranborne's speech, in which, without mincing words, the late foreign undersecretary lashed out at the government, which, he said, had made not a single contribution to peace, but had surrendered to blackmail.

It is thought by experienced observers that the government will use all its powers of propaganda to put over its policy, implying rapprochement with Italy and possibly with Germany, and that it probably will succeed.

POLAR SCIENTISTS LEAVE RESCUE SHIPS

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Four Soviet polar explorers rescued from an ice floe Saturday were taken aboard the icebreaker Yermak today from the rescue ships Murman and Taimyr when the vessels met in the Greenland sea.

The chief concern of Ivan Papanin and his comrades was their dog, Happy, who was so accustomed to the nearly nine months of life on the polar ice that he seemed confused aboard ship.

Czechoslovakia Next Nazi Field, Foreign Envoys Predict in Berlin

Group Fears Fuehrer's New Move Will Lead to Complications.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Foreign diplomats and private Nazi sources are agreed that as soon os Reichschancellor Adolf Hitler feels his new influence in Austria is sufficiently developed he will turn to Czechoslovakia.

This new development came tonight even as foreign diplomats were expressing fears that Hitler's proclamation of himself to the Reichstag as protector of German minorities in central Europe easily might lead to international complications.

Hitler was expected soon to invite either Premier Milan Hodza or Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta to Berlin to talk about the 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia.

Hitler usually presses his advantages and an advantage is seen here in the resignation of British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in defiance of settlement with Germany and Italy.

Hitler has engineered all his principal coups when his opponents were at difficulty at home or elsewhere than with Germany.

That Europe took the Nazi peaceful penetration of Austria without more than a platonic protest was said to have increased Hitler's self assurance considerably.

No little part of that assurance was based on the strides already made in the strengthening of the army he announced in his Reichstag speech.

Although little ever is known of rearmament progress in the Third Reich, one slight clue was contained in the matter-of-fact announcement a few days ago of the promotion of Lieutenant General Von Wietersheim to the rank of general and "commander of the fourteenth corps."

This was the first official disclosure of the existence of the fourteenth corps. It had been understood until now that there were 12 ordinary corps of three divisions each and a motorized corps of three divisions.

POLAND FOLLOWS NAZI DEMAND FOR TERRITORY

WARSAW, Feb. 21.—(AP)—General Stanislas Skwarzynski, leader of the National movement, tonight followed up Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demand for colonies with a declaration that Poland also needs more territory.

"Our birth rate is so high that some Poles must emigrate," he asserted in a speech. "Also, we need raw materials. Hence, the present generation should make it a point to secure colonies."

POLITICAL MEETINGS BANNED IN AUSTRIA

Shouts of 'Heil Hitler!' Resounds Through Streets of Vienna.

VIENNA, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Nazis shouting "Heil Hitler" thronged Vienna's streets tonight as the government placed a sudden ban on political meetings and demonstrations, apparently to check both Nazis and Socialists.

Workers of five large factories meanwhile held spirited pro-Schuschnigg demonstrations in which the rapprochement with Adolf Hitler was bitterly attacked.

The Nazi crowds in Vienna and Graz, second largest Austrian city, sang the German Nazi anthem, "Horst Wessel," while the factory laborers sang the Internationale. Both songs were under strict ban until Hitler and Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg met at Berchtesgaden a week ago and agreed on increased German influence in Austria.

No serious disorders developed from the demonstrations.

The political ban, effective at midnight for four weeks, does not affect the Fatherland Front, the only political party with legal status previously for Front members will be permitted to hold meetings.

NEGROES AGAIN HEAR SENTENCE OF DEATH

COLUMBUS, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Arthur Perry and Arthur Mack, negroes, were found guilty of murder without recommendation of mercy by a Muscogee superior court jury here this afternoon and were sentenced to die by electrocution on March 25 by Judge C. F. McLaughlin.

The men were tried in connection with the slaying of Charles R. Helton, a nightwatchman, here last July 31. Trial of the case lasted almost the entire day, with the jury deliberating 40 minutes before returning the verdict.

It was the second time the negroes had been sentenced to die. They were found guilty at previous separate trials, but the state supreme court granted them new trials on the ground that the judge failed to charge the jury on voluntary manslaughter and justifiable homicide verdicts.

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. Great Britain Strikes Bargain With Premier Mussolini liament a short time before, but was broken up by hurriedly-summoned police reserves.

"Hitler and Mussolini shall not dictate to Britain!" shouted the demonstrators in the lobby, drowning out the debate on the floor of commons.

They tossed pamphlets about assailing Chamberlain and lauding Eden, who quit his post in opposition to Chamberlain's insistence on negotiations with the German and Italian dictators.

Driven into the street, the crowd marched down Whitehall past the Cenotaph to Britain's war dead and into Downing street.

"Eden must stay, Chamberlain must go, arms and food for Spain!" they shouted.

To Muster Supporters.

Chamberlain, who will muster his Conservative supporters in commons Tuesday night to beat down a Laborite vote of censure, wound up tonight's debate shortly after 11 p. m. (5 p. m. Atlanta time) with a sharp denial that he sought "peace at any price" with Germany and Italy.

"We have essentials that must be conceded to us before we can make a settlement," he asserted. "What we want in Spain is a settlement of Spanish questions by Spaniards without foreign interference."

He proclaimed that a four-power European pact—Britain, Germany, Italy and France—would offer the greatest security for European peace.

"If there is to be an agreement with Italy at a later stage, after conversations, it does not mean an agreement upon any terms any other country may impose upon us but an agreement that must be acceptable to us," he said, answering Eden's charges of "yielding to Mussolini's threats.

"We Want Eden."

"We want Eden!" shouted the crowd, which was quickly dispersed when police reinforcements were summoned to parliament square from near-by Scotland Yard.

"No money to Mussolini," also was heard in the din raised by the demonstrators, estimated at about 500.

The prime minister, announcing the temporary appointment of Viscount Halifax, staunch champion of closer relations with Germany and Italy, as Eden's successor, confidently told commons that:

"As result of my conversation today with the Italian ambassador I never was more convinced of the right of any decision than that which the cabinet took Sunday."

He referred to the cabinet's decision to let Eden go.

George Backs Eden.

The Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction, led by the fiery David Lloyd George and supported by the left-wing press, started a campaign for Eden's recall to the cabinet.

There was talk of a new political front rising out of the split among the conservatives.

The opposition was convinced that Mussolini deliberately waited until Eden's resignation and then agreed to the terms on which he had staked his career and failed.

Eden's speech before the house of commons was one of the most sensational heard in many years.

The young diplomat on his way up the ladder to the premiership when he resigned in high anger 24 hours ago, warned that Chamberlain's deal with Mussolini was dangerous to the tottering structure of European peace.

Chamberlain Feared War.

"Decisions that are worth while never are made on the basis of threat," announced Eden in an explanation of the cabinet split that resulted in his resignation when he refused to enter into an accord of friendship with Italy, largely on Mussolini's terms.

Chamberlain retorted unless Italo-British relations were clarified quickly they might lead to war.

"I am convinced," he said, "that a rebuff to Italy's desire that conversations start at once would be taken by Italy as confirmation of her suspicions that we really never have been in earnest regarding those conversations.

"If that were the effect the result would be disastrous. It would be followed by an intensification of anti-British feeling in Italy rising to a point where ultimately war between us might become inevitable."

After Eden had delivered his scathing attack, Chamberlain arose and announced the Italian ambassador, Count Dino Grandi, had brought him word from Il Duce that Italy accepted a plan of appeasement calling for withdrawal of the 40,000 or 45,000 Italian troops fighting in Spain and recognition of belligerency rights for the Spanish factions.

Cabinet Collapses?

Eden's attack on the head of the British government with whom he struggled until yesterday to stave off the growing threat of a European war, ripped aside the curtain from a grave crisis that picked up momentum speedily and even carried the possibility of a cabinet collapse.

To the side of the 40-year-old diplomat swarmed Laborites, Liberals, Young Conservatives alert for a chance to break the shackles of the "old Tories" and such dangerous independents as Lloyd George and Winston Churchill.

It appeared possible that the Conservative party which rules the British empire might be split wide open and that the "rebel" Conservatives, perhaps under Churchill's leadership, might merge in a new political front.

The groundwork for a major crisis, surpassing even that stirred by King Edward VIII's abdication for love, appeared to have been laid when Eden, his face drawn and his voice hoarse with emotion, delivered one of the most sensational speeches heard in the house of commons in years.

Lashes Out in Full Anger.

He lashed out in full anger, his voice rising now and then to uncontrolled pitch, against Premier Mussolini whose ambitions he had fought at every step of international diplomacy for two years and two months as foreign secretary.

"Of late the conviction has grown on me that there has been too keen a desire on our part to make terms with others rather than others making terms with us," he said, after rising from the commons "resignation" benches below the gallery.

"We cannot make progress toward European peace if we allow the impression to gain that we have yielded to constant pressure.

"We are in the presence of progressive deterioration in respect for international obligations."

Before any talks are undertaken with Mussolini, he asserted, there must be at least a likelihood, if not a certainty, of success.

"In my judgment those conditions do not exist today."

He hit out at Europe's two major dictators, Mussolini and Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, of Germany, in what apparently was a reference to Hitler's diplomatic coup in Austria and threat to Czechoslovakian sovereignty and Italy's consent to the German penetration in Austria.

"Recent days have seen successive violations of international agreements and attempts to secure political decisions by forceful means.

"Decisions that are worthwhile never are made on the basis of threat."

Attacks Mussolini.

He attacked Mussolini for the "glorification" of Italian military victories on behalf of the Insurgents in Spain and insisted that no Italo-British understanding could be lasting unless Mussolini first withdrew his Blackshirt legionnaires from the Spanish battlefronts.

Italy, he said in summary, has done nothing to show her good faith in international negotiations for a basis of security.

Eden condemned Chamberlain's decision to sidetrack the Spanish question, as well as the flood of Italian anti-British propaganda in the near east and Italian troop concentrations in Libya, in favor of a speedy settlement with Mussolini "merely because one party to the negotiations intimates that it must be now or never."

The Prime Minister said the details of the new Italo-British friendship will be worked out as soon as the British ambassador to Rome, Lord Perth, returns to London.

4-Power Entente.

Chamberlain, always a lukewarm supporter of the League of Nations for which Eden fought doggedly, revealed publicly his ambitions to bring Britain, France, Italy and Germany into a four-power entente to handle Europe's destinies.

"If these countries could all discuss their differences amicably the peace of Europe would be saved another generation," he told the commons, adding that "the talks with Rome do not involve any departure from the British policy of closest friendship with France."

Chamberlain said he told Italian Ambassador Grandi that a settlement of the Spanish problem would be essential to any lasting Italo-British agreement and that such an agreement would have to be submitted to the League of Nations, which Italy repudiated after the example of her ally, Germany.

It was indicated that Chamberlain would send Sir Robert Vansittart, Britain's new "roving ambassador," to Rome within a few days to work on the new accord. Grandi conferred for 45 minutes today with Chamberlain, then Vansittart was called into consultation.

Eden did not go to the palace to submit his resignation as a King's minister but it was anticipated he would make the call tomorrow.

Cranborne Explains.

Viscount Cranborne, parliamentary undersecretary of the foreign office and Eden's right-hand man, who resigned with his chief, also appeared in commons today and curtly explained his resignation.

He branded Chamberlain's move for direct negotiations with Mussolini as "not a contribution to peace but a surrender to blackmail."

The nation-wide appeal for Eden's recall, issued by the Council of Action, demanded re-establishment of Eden's policies of "no surrender" on principles.

The appeal, in the form of a manifesto, condemned negotiations with Italy without attached reservations.

Chamberlain's policy of hand-to-mouth peace, he added, "completed the surrender to the demands of Signor Mussolini."

The house of commons ended its session at 10:50 p. m. Neither Lloyd George nor Churchill spoke but it was expected they would lash out in Eden's defense in tomorrow's debate on the Laborite motion of censure.

SILENT PRESIDENT WATCHES EUROPE

Roosevelt Reads Official Reports on Crisis With Intense Interest.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The swirling European political situation continued today to receive the intense interest of President Roosevelt as he read official reports on events following upon Chancellor Hitler's repudiation of the status quo and restatement of Germany's colonial demands.

The resignation of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, of Great Britain, and the start of conversations looking to an understanding between Britain and Italy dominated the day's influx of State Department messages, but, as on yesterday, no comment was forthcoming.

The President remained in the tiny study of his boyhood home all day, working on government and personal mail when he was not reading official reports and newspaper treatment of the international developments.

A press conference at the estate is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, but officials passed the word that little or no news could be expected.

AMBUSHED MAN, WIFE ROUT ROBBERS

Ex-Police Inspector and Mate Fire Pistols After Two Surprised Thieves.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Two holdup men who had waited two hours to make a surprise sortie were themselves surprised today when their intended victims put them to flight with a hail of bullets.

The men, police related, sought to hold up Charles L. Sumner, former sheriff of Marion county, Indiana, and one-time police inspector at Indianapolis; Mrs. Myrtle Brethauer and her daughter, Mary, also of Indianapolis, as they returned to their apartment house from a night club early today.

As the men said "Stick 'em up," Sumner instead drew a pistol from a hip pocket and started firing. One of the men fled and the other fired three times at Sumner, who told officers the fact that he stumbled and fell probably saved his life.

Mrs. Brethauer, who also carried a pistol, swung into action and put the second man to flight.

Russian Sound Picture To Open at Empire

The Russian sound film, "Peter the First," will be shown at 7 and 9 o'clock tonight at the Empire theater.

Based on the famous historical novel by Alexei Tolstoy and produced in Leningrad, "Peter the First" is one of the best examples of the present-day Russian cinematographic art. The picture has English subtitles to make it more interesting for Americans.

The plot deals with Peter's ambition to westernize the then barbaric Russia.

CHINESE DISTURBED BY HITLER ADDRESS

Resent Remark They Are Mentally Unfitted To Resist Bolshevism.

HANKOW, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Chinese government strongly protested today against German recognition of Manchoukuo, the Japanese-dominated state carved out of China's Manchurian provinces in 1931-33.

The government especially resented Reichsfuehrer Hitler's remark that the Chinese were unfitted mentally to resist any Bolshevist attack on them and that a Japanese victory in the far east would be better than a Bolshevist victory.

Chinese officials saw in Hitler's speech a complete reorientation of German policy in which China probably would suffer.

They also appeared disturbed by the resignation of Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary. They pointed out that Eden consistently had advocated co-operation between Britain and the United States in dealing with the far eastern question, whereas Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain apparently was seeking a reconciliation with Germany and Italy, which undoubtedly would militate eventually against China.

CODREANU'S CHOICE OF VOLUNTARY OR FORCED DISSOLUTION IS REPORTED.

COUNCILMEN'S SALARIES

Council approved the allocation of $9,900 to double the councilmen's salaries from $50 to $100 a month, and also voted to raise the salary of George I. Simons, general park manager, from $3,300 to $4,000, as recommended by Dr. Reed. Gilliam served notice of reconsideration on the latter, which brings it back to council at the next meeting.

The purchasing committee split, three and three, on recommendations for buying 20 police motorcycles and 16 cars for radio men. Opposition developed to the committee's recommendation of the purchase of a new car for Fire Chief Parker also. So divergent were councilmen's views on the purchases, only two light trucks actually were bought.

Traffic Control Fund.

Council appropriated $3,500 for the accident prevention bureau to add additional features of the Evanston traffic plan.

It overrode the veto of Mayor Hartsfield on one paper, that exempting the electrical department from the provisions of the budget law, but sustained him in another veto.

Because council had money to raise its own pay, representatives of the WPA Local No. 4 ask doubling of present relief appropriations. The paper was referred to committee without debate.

Alderman Gilliam's resolution on the school bond issue declared the city is in better shape to finance a bond issue than ever before.

He said he agreed with Dr. Reed that portables should be eliminated and that there were only two methods of financing the project. He declared unfeasible the suggestion that the school department should pay the cost out of current revenue.

Bond Interest Lower Now.

His committee is to study the proposal and recommend to council and the mayor soon whether the question of a bond issue should be submitted to the voters of the city.

Gilliam said the bonds could be issued at a lower rate of interest now than in years and that he believed this was the best method of solving the problem.

At present, he said, the city has not the money to acquire the land or to make improvements. Members of the Fathers Club for High School Boys are to assemble at 8 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel to discuss the situation, J. Roy Almand, chairman of the ways and means committee, announced.

MORE THAN 100 ASK RIGHT TO SELL LIQUOR

Petition of more than 100 persons asking council to allow sale of packaged liquor in business and trading centers was presented in council yesterday. It was referred to the ordinance committee. Councilman John A. White offered it by request. The city has not formulated rules for handling liquor.

PARKING BANNED IN PEACHTREE AREA.

Council made Peachtree street, between Houston street and Auburn avenue, non-parking during rush hours.

An amendment to the traffic ordinance, which would eliminate loading and unloading in restricted parking areas during the peak traffic periods, was introduced but was referred to the police committee. The rush hours are between 7 and 9 o'clock each morning and 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

COUCH HITS YELLOW CURBS TO PRIVATE COMPANIES

An attack on granting yellow curbs to private companies was launched by Councilman J. Allen Couch yesterday.

He told council "we are going to have to repeal every yellow curb in town because we are not treating the people right when we grant special privileges to some and not to others."

ORDINANCE PROPOSES BAN ON ANGLE PARKING

An ordinance to ban angle parking throughout the city was received in council yesterday.

Alderman Frank Reynolds and Councilman George Lyle introduced it. It would allow only parallel parking on any street. It was referred to the police committee.

SOLDIERS' HOME LINE BUSES ASKED TO REPLACE CARS

The Georgia Power Company was requested to substitute bus service for the Confederate Soldiers' Home street car line in a resolution introduced in council by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam and Councilman E. A. Minor and George Lyle. Minor said street car service is inadequate for the East Atlanta and Ormewood sections.

LAY-DOWN STRIKE.

VALENCIENNES, France, Feb. 21.—(AP)—A score of Communist miners, lying prostrate across the tracks in front of a Lens roundhouse, today prevented 14,000 other coal workers from doing an extra hour's work asked by the government.

GEORGIA SENATOR HOST TO BRITISHERS

Entertains as Second Ranking Member of Foreign Relations Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—As the second highest ranking majority member of the senate foreign relations committee it fell the lot of Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, to play the role of host today to two distinguished high officials of the British government.

The Georgia senator gave a small luncheon in honor of Lord Stanley and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the latter the British ambassador to the United States. Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the committee, arranged the luncheon, but asked Senator George to preside in the role of host after finding himself unable to attend on account of illness. Other guests, all members of the committee, were Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, former Republican chairman; Senator James P. Pope, of Idaho, and Senator James E. Murray, of Montana. The affair was held in the elaborate rooms of the foreign relations committee.

Prior to the luncheon Senator George took Lord Stanley, a prominent member of the British house of lords, and Sir Ronald on an inspection tour of the capitol, including a visit to the diplomatic gallery of the senate during debate preliminary to sidetracking the long-discussed anti-lynching bill.

Fashion Drops Back 23 Years for High School Misses

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Fashion note, 1915: The well-dressed high school girl wears a full pleated skirt, a white, blue-collared, middy blouse.

Fashion note, 1938: The well-dressed young high school girl wears a full pleated short skirt with the smart new shirtwaist blouse, very mannish.

It's off with the old and on with the new, but Dame Fashion still commands the situation in that the pendulum of style has swung back to the old style with only a slight variation in detail. The blue collar is missing.

Clothes of Old.

There was a time when all students in high school were required to wear uniforms, mostly dark blue and white, to adhere to time-honored rules and regulations. The girls all looked alike, pretty or not. There could be no "umph" in a high school girl's appearance when mother was a girl.

Now it's a different story. The girls all wear the same style, but they lead a colorful life in that they wear vari-hued skirts, a contrasting blouse or sweater and top it all with a gay scarf.

It's the same, yet it's different and the girls nowadays can at least be individual in their dress.

"Best" Clothes Era.

And speaking of being individual, do you remember those dear, dead days (thank heavens) when the sweet 16 miss went to classrooms in long satin models, extra high French heels, and a fur coat? Remember how it was considered the smart thing to do to wear the very best clothes to school, appropriate or not? Even black velvet with lace collars found their way to classrooms and the girls thought it smart, but not from a fashion standpoint, to overdress their classmates and go sweeping into a French class as if it were a French salon on the Riviera?

Today's style is not so expensive.

NEW RED EVIDENCE ON BRIDGES CLAIMED

Affidavits Against Labor Leader Reported by Senator Copeland.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, announced today he had received "new evidence" bearing on charges that Harry Bridges, west coast maritime labor leader, is a Communist. It came, he said, from the Better America Federation of Los Angeles.

The New Yorker has predicted that Bridges will be deported by the Labor Department as a result of a pending investigation. He said copies of affidavits from Los Angeles, if true, would be "disconcerting to Mr. Bridges and friends of Communism."

Copeland refused to reveal contents of the affidavits, saying he would turn them over to a special senate committee which he expects will be named to investigate "subversive activities" in the maritime industry.

KIDNAPING REPORT OF YOUTH PROBED

Alabama Student Charges He Was Taken 'For Ride.'

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 21.—(UP)—Sheriff Festus E. Shamblin tonight investigated the report of D. L. Walker, University of Alabama student from Washington, D. C., that he had been kidnaped by a group of fellow collegians.

Walker said he was "lured out" of his room Thursday night and that his assailants taped his mouth, threw a bag over his head and took him "for a ride." He said he was thrown out of the automobile, but was not injured.

Walker said the kidnaping was connected with college politics. Student elections will be early in April. A student was wounded with a pistol shot in college political strife here in 1934.

MAN HELD IN DEATH OF BROTHER-IN-LAW

After an autopsy indicated Lewis P. Fielder, 36, of 376 Simpson street, died from a stab wound near the heart, city detectives last night announced John Everett, 32, brother-in-law of the dead man, would be held on "suspicion of murder" pending outcome of an investigation.

Grady physicians Saturday night said Fielder's death might have been caused from the wound or "some kind of stroke." Fielder died at Grady after a quarrel with Everett ended in a fight, police charged. Everett, who surrendered at the police station, told detectives Fielder was stabbed in a scuffle for possession of an ice pick.

400 Per Cent Business Increase For Building Loans Predicted

Horace Russell Tells Georgia League Convention of Companies' Growth Since 1930, Asserts Income Will Be $100,000,000 by 1948.

A prediction that business of Georgia building and loan companies would increase from the present sum of $20,000,000 yearly to $100,000,000 a year by 1948 was made last night by Horace Russell, of Atlanta, general counsel of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board at Washington.

Speaking at a banquet attended by delegates to the midwinter conference of the Georgia Building & Loan League, which began a two-day convention yesterday at the Ansley hotel, Russell declared building and loan groups in Georgia have had a phenomenal growth since 1930. He was introduced by O. K. LaRoque, president of the Winston-Salem (N. C.) Home Loan Bank.

In a speech yesterday afternoon, the attorney voiced the determination of the federal government to "do something about" housing at least one-third of the country's population, which, he said, is an acute need facing the nation today.

"It is foolish indeed to have a high percentage of our able-bodied men sit idle and others working at less essential tasks when one-third of our families are ill-housed," he warned. "The time has come to take a realistic view of the situation."

"Realistic View."

The "realistic view," he advised, is for the savings and loan associations not to bid against each other for investment funds at an "inordinate" interest rate, stating that "if such a course is continued, other institutions will provide cheaper money and take the most desirable home financing in the state."

Pointing out that Georgia needs new and better housing and that the workmen of the state need the work, Russell declared "the federal housing program is going forward here and savings and loan associations have their greatest opportunity to participate."

"The result of bad housing," he added, "is not only that families are uncomfortable, but that they are also unproductive. Resulting crime costs the government, local, state and national, more money than adequate housing would cost.'

70 Per Cent Tenants.

"In Georgia, according to the last census, 70 per cent of the families were tenants and only 30 per cent owned any interest whatsoever in their homes," he asserted. "I fear that conditions since 1930 have brought about a more shameful record of tenancy.

"If we would report a better record in 1940 we must bestir ourselves and do something about the situation. Everyone admits to our best interests we must find means to get a greater number of families to assume the responsibility of home ownership."

Russell praised Governor Rivers and the general assembly for passage of the savings and loan law. He said it was the first such law to be put on statute books of this state and led many states of the south.

He strongly advised Georgia savings and loan association heads to adjust interest rates as the "only way to meet the present situation."

Other Speakers.

Speakers at the morning session of the conference yesterday included J. D. McLamb, who gave the report of the legislative committee; Julius A. McCurdy Jr., of Decatur, who talked on the homestead exemption laws; John B. Wilson, secretary of state, who explained new rules governing building and loan associations, and Granger Hansell, who spoke on taxes in general.

At the afternoon session, Russell was followed on the program by G. E. Maddox, who explained the building and loan act, and George W. West, who spoke on national legislation affecting building and loan associations.

The conference members were guests of the Atlanta Building and Loan League at luncheon yesterday and at supper last night. Russell spoke last night on "Recent and Proposed Federal Legislation."

A conference on matters of general interest and a meeting of the executive committee of the association will conclude the sessions this morning.

J. G. St. Amand, Bank President, Observes 84th Birthday Today

American Savings Bank, Hibernia Building, Loan Association Head Heard Opening Guns of War Between States in Charleston; Game Here in 1877.

A man who as a 7-year-old Charlestonian heard the opening shot of the War Between the States, will celebrate his eighty-fourth birthday this afternoon with a quiet "at home" to his friends at his residence, 81 Peachtree place, N. E.

He is Joseph G. St. Amand, president of the American Savings Bank, and the Hibernia Savings Building & Loan Association.

Born in Charleston in 1854 of a widely known South Carolina family, St. Amand saw his city and state wrecked by four years of war and many more of reconstruction. However, as he puts it, he had the "pleasure" of helping restore South Carolina to her citizens in 1876 as a member of Wade Hampton's famous Red Shirts.

In 1877, St. Amand came to the then young city of Atlanta as a representative of a Charleston wholesale firm, and since that date has been an important factor in the city's business growth.

One of the orignal incorporators of the American Savings Bank, in 1887, he was elected its president in 1902 and has held the office since. Last year, St. Amand and the bank held a double celebration, that of the bank's golden anniversary, and the anniversary of St. Amand's thirty-fifth year as president.

MINIMUM COAL PRICES SUSPENDED BY COURT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The government suffered a new setback in its effort to enforce minimum coal prices today when the federal court of appeals suspended the prices of 1,462 members of the Associated Industries of New York State, Inc.

Despite the court's far-reaching order, however, the National Bituminous Coal Commission decided to try to preserve the remains of its minimum price schedule for the time being, at least.

NEW RAINS ADD TO FLOOD PERIL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Rain started to fall again in Arkansas late today, adding uncertainty to a flood situation that had appeared almost under control.

The Arkansas, White and Ouachita rivers were falling in their upper reaches, but crests still had to strike at least one major danger zone in the vicinity of Pine Bluff in southwest Arkansas.

A curve in the Arkansas river bank north of Pine Bluff, was causing considerable bank caving.

The Cotton Belt railroad dumped tons of gravel into the stream at this point in an effort to deflect the current and prevent a possible levee crevasse which would inundate its large shops.

Approximately 5,000 persons were being given temporary shelter by the Red Cross and other agencies. They had been evacuated from lowland homes.

He Goes Home to Mother; Wife 74, Gets Divorce

SALEM, Mass., Feb. 21—(AP)—Testimony that her husband, a Gorham, Maine, storekeeper, deserted her 48 years ago because he "wanted to go home to his mother" today won a divorce for Mrs. John F. Hanson, 74, of Glouster.

Mrs. Hanson testified her husband left her on New Year's Day, 1890, six years after they were married, and added that, during the time they lived together, they never had a quarrel.

"Not even when he left you?" inquired Probate Judge Edward O'Brien.

REDS ORDER DEATH OF VETERINARIANS

Eleven Accused of Causing Epidemics Among Cows.

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Eleven veterinarians were sentenced to death today at Ordjonikidze in the Caucasus on charges of spreading epidemics which resulted in the loss of more than 80,000 head of livestock in five years.

They were accused of inoculating 200 cows with paratyphoid germs before sending them to slaughter. As a result a large number of soldiers and workers were poisoned.

Two of the sentences were suspended because the court decided the men could be used further as specialists.

Two employes in a packing house at Dagestan were sentenced to death on charges of disrupting the meat supply for industrial centers and spreading disease in the army.

TREAT A COLD AS IF YOU MEAN IT!
Don't Fool Around with Half-way Measures!
The so-called "common cold" causes more serious sickness and more enforced absence from work than anything else.
It's a mistake to treat a cold lightly. A cold calls for a cold treatment and not a "cure-all." A cold calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.
Your Stand-by!
What you should take for a cold are Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets)!
First of all, Bromo Quinine tablets are a real cold medicine, made expressly for the treatment of colds.
Secondly, they are internal medication.
They do four things:
First, Bromo Quinine tablets open the bowels.
Second, they check the infection in the system.
Third, they relieve the headache and fever.
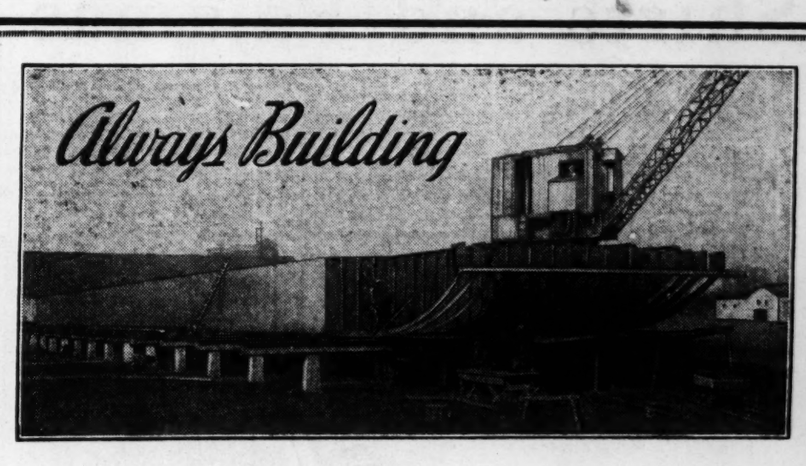
Bromo Quinine tablets may be taken with confidence.
The fact that they have been on the market for over 40 years and that they are the largest-selling cold tablet in the world, assures you of their reliability.
Your Best Bet!
Bromo Quinine tablets come in 35c and 60c sizes. The 60c size is the better "buy." It gives you almost 20 per cent more for your money.
Remember, as soon as a cold makes its appearance, turn to Bromo Quinine tablets!
Ask for—and demand—Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets)! No reliable druggist will offer you a substitute.



America's longest railroad river transfer is now — and has been for about fifty years — operated by the NC&StL Railway on the Tennessee river between Hobbs Island and Guntersville, Alabama — a distance of about twenty-one miles.
To improve this service the NC&StL is having additional all-steel barges built to go into operation in March. Each new barge will be 240 feet long, 32 feet wide — will weigh empty 750,000 pounds, and will have two standard railroad tracks on which ten loaded freight cars, weighing with load 1,700,000 pounds, can be safely transported.
ALWAYS BUILDING, the NC&StL is constantly improving its transportation facilities in order to give its patrons the best and safest service.

ODDS ON LOUIS DROP AS TICKET SALES ADVANCE

Broadway Quotes 1 to 3 Against Louis Decision in Wednesday's Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Notwithstanding the "tune-up" purpose of the fistic proceedings Wednesday night in Madison Square Garden, betting odds favoring Joe Louis shortened today while ticket sales boomed for the negro's 15-round defense of the world heavyweight crown against Nathan Mann.

Original posted odds were cut in half as Broadway quoted 1 to 3 against the champion's chances of winning the decision and even money against a knockout victory for Louis.

Fresh backing for Mann from his home state of Connecticut, rather than any developments calculated to minimize the outlook for a Louis triumph, accounted for the shift in betting figures.

The Nutmeg State's first challenger for the heavyweight title will not lack vocal support, regardless of the extent to which his chances are financially backed. From his home town, New Haven, as well as Hartford, Waterbury, Bridgeport and other Connecticut cities, upwards of 6,000 fans are expected. Six special trains, besides several fleets of busses, will bring the cheering section for Mann, including the parents, four brothers and three sisters of the fighter who was born Natalino Menchetti nearly 23 years ago.

The advance sale passed $60,000 over the week end, Promoter Mike Jacobs reported. He predicted it will go well over $100,000. The Garden is scaled to handle 19,000 cash customers at a "top" of $16.50. A sellout will mean gross receipts of $140,000.

New York's last indoor fight for the world heavyweight title, between Jack Dempsey and Bill Brennan in 1920 at the old Garden, drew nearly $150,000 at a top price of $25.

Louis, who hasn't fought since he outpointed Tommy Farr at the Yankee stadium last August, has all the fistic advantages but he is also running most of the risks. For protective purposes, in case of an upset for the champion, he is guaranteed a return match with Mann within 60 days.

SWEENY ENTERS.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 21. (UP)—Bob Sweeny, American-born British amateur golf champion, announced today that he would compete in the seventh annual Miami Biltmore amateur four-ball tournament which starts Wednesday.

(Editor's Note: Break o' Day is written today by Jack Troy, acting sports editor of The Constitution, pinch-hitting for Ralph McGill.)

Umpires Always Have the Last Word---Except at Home

Claud Bond, who this summer begins his fourth year as a brother in blue in the Southern league, has never forgotten the sage advice given him by Bill Brennan.

The Crackers and Oglethorpe were playing an exhibition game at Ponce de Leon and matters came to a sort of climax when the rival shortstops, Chink Martin and Buster Chatham, tangled.

Bond changed his course and walked over to where Bill Brennan was standing near first base.

"Where were you going, son?" he asked.

"Why, I was going up there to separate 'em," Claud Bond responded.

"Listen, son," continued Bill Brennan in a kindly tone, "don't you know the very thing they'd like to do is to take a swing at you?

"If you want to live long and do well, don't ever fool with a fight."

It was Bill Brennan, who, when questioned vigorously by a player as to why he had called a certain ball a strike, replied—"I call 'em; I don't explain 'em."

BOND IS YOUNGEST.

Bond yesterday signed his contract, which called for an increase, in President Trammell Scott's office over on Broad street.

He is the youngest umpire on the staff, being 32. And, showing more or less that umpires are human, Bond has three children—all boys—aged 12, eight and four.

Bond is quite a family man. Everything is ideal for Claud as an umpire, for Mrs. Bond is a trained nurse. The youngsters are all baseball fans and, as such, require "Pop" to do a bit of explaining on some of his decisions. They don't always agree with him, either.

Bond is all for giving the game back to the players. "I insist on only one thing. And that is that the players don't try to show me up in front of the fans.

"An umpire thinks more of a player who kicks when he thinks he is right. But he won't stand for any belittlin'. The game was designed for the players, and I think they are entitled to make the most of it.

"You can say this for Claud Bond. If there ever happens to be a time when the fans are after him in full cry, you will be able to say, 'Boy, there's a fellow who really can run!' "

THEY ALWAYS HAVE LAST WORD.

Umpires always have the last word on the ball field. The little woman still, as ever, has the last word at home.

But the fact remains that their word on the diamond is law.

COOPER WINNER AT NEW ORLEANS WITH 285 TOTAL

McSpaden Is Second; Snead and Laffoon Tie for Third.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—(AP) Front-running Harry Cooper, on top from the first nine holes, rode par through stiff north winds today to beat his field by four strokes in the 72-hole Crescent City open tournament.

Cooper pocketed $1,200 for first money. Monotonously, the baldish little Chcopee, Mass., veteran, bridled the wind with two final rounds of par 72 to card his 285 total, a remarkable three under par performance under varied weather conditions. Rain sodden fairways and high winds plagued three of his rounds.

Steady shooting gave Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass,. professional, second money of $750 with his 289 total.

ONE SHAKY SPOT.

Only once did Cooper give the gallery of several thousand the faintest idea that it was possible for him to lose the tourney. On the sixty-sixth hole galeryities gaped while the machineman, irked at noise in the gallery, fourputted from 30 feet.

His first putt went only half the distance to the hole, falling 15 feet short. His next try skimmed three feet past and he missed the return putt. It gave him a six on the par four hole but he came back quickly.

Together in a tie for third place were Slammin' Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., winner of three previous winter tourneys, and Ky Laffoon, dapper Chicago professional, who struck his stride for the first time this winter on the final 36 holes. His two closing rounds of 70, two under par, gave him 292 and the tie with Snead. They received $500 each.

BYRD IN MONEY.

Veteran Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, stormed in with a last round 69 which included seven birdies, to tie with Sam Byrd, of Philadelphia, former New York Yankee outfielder, with 294 worth $325 each. Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., stood alone at 295 and collected $270 while Dick Metz, of Chicago, who faltered on the last nine, and Chandler Harper, young Portsmouth, Va., swinger, finished in a heat at 296 for $210 prize money.

Fred Haas Jr., of New Orleans, Walker Cup player, was low amateur with 300.

Wife Says Gomez 'Highly Eccentric'

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP) Something that baseball fans suspected all along was corrobated in papers filed in supreme court today by Mrs. Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, in her suit for separation from the Yankees' southpaw pitching ace.

"He," she recited, "is highly eccentric."

The papers filed by Attorney Melvin Kleeblatt also alleged that Gomez threatened her.

Kleeblatt disclosed that Mrs. Gomez, the former June O'Dea, of Broadway musicals, would request $200 weekly temporary alimony and $3,500 counsel fees pending a decision in the separation action.

KNICKERBOCKER, HENRICH IN LINE

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Two more members of the World Champion New York Yankees came into the fold today when signed contracts were received from Tommy Henrich, young centerfielder, and Billy Knickerbocker, utility infielder.

The Yankees recently obtained Knickerbocker from the St. Louis Browns in return for Infielder Don Heffner and cash. He is counted on as insurance in the event Joe Gordon, highly touted young infielder from Newark, fails to make the grade at second base.

Henrich was reported at odds with the club over the terms of his 1938 contract, but announced at his Massilon, Ohio, home last week an agreement had been reached.

Miley Shows Form In Practice Round

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP) — Some good preliminary work was put in today by many of the nation's best women golfers in preparation for tomorrow's qualifying round of the annual South Atlantic golf championship.

Marion Miley, of Fort Pierce, Fla., and Lexington, Ky., the 1936 South Atlantic title-holder, turned in the best performance in the practice rounds, shooting a 75, three over par. She played a round with Mrs. E. F. Cary, of Minneapolis, and Sally Guth, Webster Groves, Mo., who also appeared to be hitting her shots well.

Mrs. Lillian K. Zech, the Chicago district star, sounded a warning to the field by carding a neat 78 this morning. Patty Berg, the Minneapolis red-head, rested this morning and confined her efforts this afternoon to putting and chipping.

Richards Here; Denies Lookout Outfield Best

Paul Thinks Cracker Pitching Around Top; Finds Promising Talent at Waxahachie.

By JACK TROY.

"What is all this I've been reading in the papers about Chattanooga having the strongest outfield in the Southern league?" Paul Richards inquired yesterday shortly after his arrival from Waxahachie, Texas.

"That's right. Everybody is saying Chattanooga has the strongest outfield in the league and, furthermore, appears to be the class team of the circuit. Joe Engel already has raised the winter pennant."

"I thought at first it was a misprint," continued Paul Richards, the Crackers' catcher-manager. "But after reading it in several papers I knew it must be right.

"I don't know just what brought it all about in the first place, but I wish to say here that we have an outfield fully as good as Chattanooga and a pitching staff that's a whole lot better.

"In fact, getting down to brass tacks, we have a pitching staff that rates, on paper, with that of any other Southern league team.

CHATHAM'S INJURY.

"I naturally am worried about Buster Chatham. We were counting on his experience to steady the infield. I understand he won't know until Wednesday how badly his eye is injured. If we lose him, Al Rubeling may have to play short. That will leave us in a sort of spot for a second baseman."

Richards is not entirely satisfied with the Cracker squad, as it stands, but believes things will work out satisfactorily. He can't tell a great deal about some of the players until he has a chance to see them in action at Savannah.

He reported that the Crackers' school at Waxahachie was a real success. "There was great interest in the school, which was the main thing. And I think that three players will do us some good in the future.

KID SHORTSTOP.

"There is quite a story connected with Wise, who once had a trial with Atlanta. He left high school in 1932 as a kid of 17. He went over to the Western association and was a sensation, winning 12 straight games. The White Sox bought him. He started out well, but he was pitching to batting practice one day and a line drive hit his arm.

ARM TROUBLE.

"He had an operation in 1936 and didn't try to pitch any that year. He didn't play last year, either. I saw him during the year he had his bad arm. And when he reported at the school and worked out for several days, he looked a lot better. I am not sure that his arm is well, but I think he's worth sending out. He might be able to help us later on."

Richards said Jackson, a neat right-handed first baseman who hit .475 in a Dallas sandlot league and was recommended by Pinky Higgins, Red Sox third baseman, is a bright prospect.

"I'm ready to get started," Richards added. "We'll need that month at Savannah to really get going."

GAMES TODAY.

MAILHO WRITES CONTRACT LOST, BUT WILL SIGN

Mann Expects Atlantan To Hit .350; Chatham Injures Eye.

By JACK TROY.

The Cracker outfield is two-thirds present and three-thirds accounted for.

Marshall Mauldin yesterday signed his contract to play center field for the Atlanta club this summer. Eddie Rose, left fielder, signed last week.

President Earl Mann yesterday had word from Emil Mailo, the fiery little French outfielder, that he had misplaced his contract, but was ready to sign.

MAULDIN.

Mailho wrote that President Mann could either send him another one or he would sign at camp. So that takes care of the outfield.

Mailho, who lives in Berkeley, Cal., will leave soon by automobile for the Savannah camp, he informed Mann. Mauldin and Rose are here.

MAY HIT .350.

"I wouldn't be surprised," said Mann, "if Mauldin hit .350 this summer. I know he is a real outfielder. I doubt if there's a center fielder in the league who is better on fly balls.

"He had an off year at bat in 1937, but I believe he is ready for a great year. He may not hit as well as he did in 1936, when he had a great season with Knoxville, but I'll venture a guess he'll hit at least 50 points higher than he did with us last summer."

FORMIDABLE OUTFIELD.

As matters stand, the Crackers have a rather formidable outfield. Rose led the league in runs-batted-in. Mailho had a good year and batted in more than 80 runs.

Defensively, they may stack up as the best outfield trio in the league. And there is every reason to believe they may hold their own offensively.

President Mann had a wire yesterday from Buster Chatham, who said he would not know until later in the week how badly injured is his eye, which he hurt while chopping wood.

A piece of wood flew up and hit him in the eye. "I hope it is nothing serious," Mann said.

SIXTEEN HORSES READY TO START

By ROBERT MYERS.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—A field of 16 strapping youngsters of the turf was named today to battle it out in the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby tomorrow.

Post time for the mile and one furlong event may find the field cut down even more by overnight scratches, but it appeared unlikely that the leading contenders for the prize would sidestep the issue.

Weather predictions promised continued sunshine and a lightning fast track. A throng ranging upwards from 45,000 was expected to witness the fourth running of Santa Anita's classic for 3-year-olds.

The entries, with owners: Stagehand, Maxwell Howard; Tiger, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars; Sir Raleigh, Anthony Pelleteri; Sun Egret, A. C. Seabiscuit Heads Santa Anita Field.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Entries for the $7,500 San Antonio handicap next Saturday, last big feature before the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 5, closed today with Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit topping a field of 22.

Jockey Jack "Red" Pollard, seriously hurt in a spill in the race while riding Fair Knightess, will be unable to ride the 'Biscuit this meeting. Owner Howard said he was negotiating with another rider, and it was reported Harry Richards was under consideration.

LOUISVILLE HIGH GRID HEAD GETS WYNNE'S PLACE

Shively, Ex-Teammate of Red Grange, Made Athletic Director.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 21.—(UP)—Bernie Shively, head of the department of education, today was named athletic director, and Ab Kirwan, Louisville, varsity football coach at the University of Kentucky—succeeding Chester A. "Chet" Wynne, who held both positions before his resignation last week.

Shivley and Kirwan, football coach at Louisville's Dupont Manual High school, were selected by the university's athletic council at its last meetings. Dr. Frank L. McVey, Kentucky's president, said he would appoint formally next Friday.

FROM AUBURN.

Wynne, when he came here in 1934 after coaching at Auburn, demoted Shively from varsity line coach to assistant freshman coach. Shively transferred to the department of education in 1935. He played with Red Grange at Illinois in 1924 and 1925 and was All-America guard in 1926. The next year he started here as varsity line coach.

Shively, under Kentucky's new setup, will have control over the athletic department instead of the council. He named Kirwan as varsity coach immediately after the council announced his appointment as athletic director.

Shively was selected by the university's athletic council at its last meeting. He immediately named Kirwan, football coach at Louisville's Dupont Manual High, as varsity coach. Dr. Frank L. McVey, Kentucky's president, said he would approve the appointments formally next Friday.

DEMOTED SHIVELY.

Wynne, when he came here in 1934 after coaching at Auburn, demoted Shively from varsity line coach to assistant freshman coach. Shively transferred to the department of education in 1935. He played with Red Grange at Illinois in 1924 and 1925, and was All-America guard in 1926. The next year, he started here as varsity line coach.

Alumni, dissatisfied by the unsuccessful showings of Wynne's teams, demanded his resignation and he gave it last week.

Salaries of Shively and Kirwan were not announced.

The university's athletic council, when Wynne resigned, voted to turn control of the athletic department over to the new director.

The sixth annual George Washington Sweepstakes will get under way on the downtown alleys at 3 o'clock this afternoon with ten of the best bowlers in the city competing for the many attractive cash awards that will be given the winners, though several other bowlers are expected to sign before starting time.

With an entry fee of $3 per person that includes the cost of the six games to be bowled in two separate blocks of three games each, and no handicaps to apply, bowlers will be participating in a new type of tourney as it is the first time a six-game meet has been scheduled on the Atlanta drives.

H. V. Fleming, G. H. Tyler, G. L. Bushong, G. B. French, Walter Lawson, J. L. Paulerson, A. J. Sossong, W. F. Lowry, G. W. McKay and Ralph Cutter are already signed to compete for the awards.

Cash prizes, all of which are guaranteed, include a first of $15, second $5, third $3 and two block prizes of $3 each for high sets among non-winners.

W. F. (Carrera) Lowry who won the event last year, when it was staged on its usual 10 games basis, will defend his title this afternoon. Peculiarly, Lowry has won every "scratch" event in which he has participated this year, with the John Blick, Georgia open doubles and the Georgian Individuals championships included in his laurels.

Smithies, Purples Postpone Game

Tech High and Boys' High have postponed their Big Eight basketball game scheduled for tonight, until after the G. I. A. A. tournament Thursday, Friday and Saturday on the Warren arena court.

Boys' High plays Monroe Aggies in a second-round game in the tourney and have decided to let that game count in the Big Eight standings, due to a postponed game last week during the city prep tournament.

Should Boys' High and Tech High meet in a semi-final game it is likely that it will count for the last round of the Big Eight schedule.

Southern Bleachery Wins in Final, 35-34

By ROY WHITE.

"Whitey" Wilson's field goal in the last 48 seconds of play gave Southern Bleachery, of Taylors, S. C., a 35-to-34 victory over Carter Shoe, of Nashville, Tenn., and the fourth annual southern amateur championship on the Warren Arena court Monday night.

Trailing through most of the game, the Bleachery five went into the lead with less than fives minutes left, lost the lead and had to come from behind with a last-minute goal to win.

The Bleachery five appeared to be "freezing" the ball with one minute left to play when suddenly Burt Hill, the tournament's leading scorer looked on the scoreboard and saw his team one point behind. He got busy in a hurry and passed almost under the basket to Wilson who let the ball go through the basket for a championship field goal.

GOOD GAME.

It was one of the best games of the entire tournament, with both teams playing cautiously throughout. Only in the last three minutes did either team take any desperate chances from long range.

It was the cleanest game of the tournament, with only 14 personal fouls being called. And every foul was result of hard play, with none of the rough stuff being exhibited.

EDGE FROM FIELD.

Carter Shoe had the edge in field goals, scoring 16 to 15 for the Bleacheries, but the South Carolina team made good five fouls out of 10 tries, while Carter made only two fouls out of five tries.

Whitehead, who was second in the week's scoring, led Carter's attack with 13 points and was high for the night. The remainder of Carter's points were well divided.

Burt Hill, who topped the week's scoring with 75 points, was held to eight points, but Sudduth broke loose for five field goals and a foul to lead the Bleachery five to victory.

In two preliminary games between members of Fritz Orr's Club boys, the Blues beat the Golds, 14-9, and the Reds defeated the Greens, 30 to 19.

Florida Swimmers Face Tech Tonight

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The University of Florida swimming team, unbeaten for two and a half years, and champs last year of the Southeastern conference, leave for a five-meet road trip in the first defense of their conference title.

The 'Gator mermen, coached by Frank Genovar, will splash the lid off their 1938 schedule Monday against Auburn, in Auburn, Ala. Tuesday they will hop over to Atlanta for a match with Georgia Tech. They swim against Emory Wednesday, go to Athens Thursday for a meet with Georgia, and then wind up their trip against Tennessee Saturday at Knoxville.

New York Giants Take First Drill

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Manager Bill Terry gave up waiting for spring weather today and took his New York Giants' batterymen out for their first workout of the season under murky skies and a 38-degree temperature.

After a couple of laps around the field, and tossing a few, Memphis Bill called hitting practice. He did the pitching. The session lasted about an hour.

APPLY FOR MEETS.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Narragansett Racing Association has applied for two meets in 1938, the first running from August 1 to September 10, inclusive, and the second from October 10 to November 19, inclusive, it was revealed today when the Rhode Island division of racing held a hearing upon the matter.

BREAK O' DAY

Only some are more rigid in ruling the game than others. That's what they are trying to get away from in the Southern league this summer. A little more leniency with regard to players' rights is desired.

Anyway, Bond is so used to having the last word that he couldn't resist springing the following on Barney Medintz Sunday night when the Jewish Progressive Club was playing the New Orleans Y. M. H. A.:

"You missed that one," yelled Medintz.

"You missed both of them, didn't you?"

THE LITTLE REBEL.

Speaking of baseball, one recalls a heroic little figure, Rache Bell, who always had a winner or runner-up when he was coaching American Legion teams a few years back.

Bell overcame great physical handicaps to engage in a work he loved and knew so well. And today there is a large number of players who owe their start in the game to the Little Rebel. They readily give him credit for it.

The players include young Jim Bagby, now with the Boston Red Sox; Hugh Casey, Memphis; Johnny Marion, Chattanooga; Joel Tierce, who belongs to Birmingham; Martin Marion, Rochester; Johnny Echols, Mobile, and Roy Shoemaker, Columbus, Ga. Casey has been up with the Cubs and Marion has had a trial with Washington.

Other names that may be added to the list are those of Boob Spurlin, who, as a member of Dixisteel, was picked on the All-American amateur team and belongs to Chattanooga, and Harry Appleby, Georgia Tech, who turned down a contract with Chattanooga to finish school.

It's quite a record, I'd say. Bell's talent came from a small area in Atlanta, which makes it all the more remarkable. Maybe Alabama can match the record, but few other southern colleges can.

FEW THIRTY-GAME WINNERS.

Checking the records, you find few 30-game winners in the American league. Atlanta claims one of the pitchers to attain the mark in the person of Jim Bagby Sr.

Bob Grove, in 1931, was the last pitcher to have such a season in the American league. Many American league greats have come close through the years, but failed by a few games.

Among the 27-game winners in a season have been Addie Joss, George Uhle, Urban Shocker and Carl Mays. Two other pitchers fell just one run shy of the 30-mark. They include George Mullin, Detroit, 1905, and Edward Cicotte, Chicago, 1919.

PRINCETON LINE MENTOR NAMED TO CRISLER'S JOB

Salary Under $8,000 and Contract Are Not Revealed.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Elton E. (Tad) Wieman, line coach at Princeton University for a half-dozen years, tonight was named head football coach of the Tigers.

The husky University of Michigan product succeeds Herbert O. (Fritz) Chrisler, who resigned February 9 to become head coach and assistant director of athletics at the University of Michigan.

Mentioned prominently among candidates for the job ever since Crisler left, Wieman finally decided to remain at Princeton after careful consideration of an offer to accompany Crisler to Michigan.

MICHIGAN GRAD.

Graduated from Michigan in 1921, Wieman was a tackle and fullback star and a Phi Beta Kappa to boot. He was line coach at Michigan from 1921 through 1926 and then served as head coach there during 1927 and 1928. He was assistant director of athletics at Michigan from 1923 through 1929.

He moved to Minnesota as line coach in 1930 and 1931 and then came to Princeton in 1932 when Crisler took charge.

The length of the contract given Wieman as head coach and the salary terms were not revealed in the announcement, made by Professor Burnham Dell, chairman of the University Council of Athletics.

The salary, however, cannot exceed the $8,000 received by the highest paid professors.

AIDES UNCERTAIN.

Wieman said he had made no decision concerning his staff of assistants except that he had intended to invite all the assistant coaches who had served under Crisler to remain in their positions. He did not learn until after the announcement that Earl Martineau had been appointed backfield coach under Crisler at Michigan, leaving only himself and End Coach Campbell Dickson remaining from Crisler's staff.

Wieman, who had been profitably engaged in the insurance business in Philadelphia while serving as a Princeton assistant, revealed that he had resigned his business connections today and would devote all his time to coaching duties. He and his family would soon move to Princeton, he said, in time to begin preparations for spring practice.

The 1937 Princeton team had one of the poorest seasons since Crisler took charge, losing to Cornell, Harvard, Dartmouth and Yale, four of its major opponents. The Tigers gave promise of a brighter future, however, by trouncing Navy 26-6 in their final game. Captain Charley Toll, the giant tackle, and Halfback Jack White are this year's principal losses by graduation.

Earl Martineau Will Aid Crisler.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Earl T. Martineau, a member of Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler's football coaching staff at Princeton, was appointed backfield coach at the University of Michigan today.

His appointment was the first to be announced since Crisler was named head coach, succeeding Harry G. Kipke.

Georgia Ring Team Loses to Miami, 5-3

CITY LEAGUE.

The "Y" City league will close a successful season tonight, with four good games, all of which should be close.

Dixisteel plays Gold Shield in the game that can have lots to do with the last half standing. Dixisteel is undefeated while Gold Shield has lost but one game. Should Gold Seal win tonight, a play off would be necessary to determine the last half winner. The last half winner will play Gulf later for the championship, since Gulf was the first half winner.

7:15 P. M.—Dixisteel v. Gold Shield.
8:15 P. M.—Columbia Seminary vs. Sears-Roebuck.

Browdy Wins Post On All-Star Team

Southern Bleachery led the Southern Amateur All-Star team with two players, following the championship game Monday night on the Warren Arena court when the South Carolina team beat Carter Shoe, of Nashville, 35 to 34.

Hill and Burnett were given forward and guard places, though both played guard for the new champions. Whitehead, of Carter, was given the other forward place, with Browdy, J. P. C., center, and Emery, a guard on the Greer, S. C., team the other guard position.

Trophies were given to winners and runner-up and to each member of the all-star team.

New Tiger Coach

MONROE AGGIES BEAT G. M. A., 51-31

MONROE, Ga., Feb. 21.—Monroe Aggies defeated G. M. A., of Atlanta, 51-31, in their final game of the season before the G. I. A. A. tourney starts.

Murphy, star Aggie forward, led his team's attack with 23 points. He has played in 10 Big Eight games and averages 22.1 points a game.

The score at the half was 25-15 in favor of Red Barron's five.

Budge Returns; Won't Turn Pro This Season

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—J. Donald Budge, returning from a tour of Australia with three other California tennis associates, said today that "there is not a chance of my turning professional this season."

"I expect to play in the Wimbledon and United States national championships," said the Oakland red head.

"As for my turning professional for the 1939 season, as has been rumored about, well—I shall not be looking that far ahead.

"My motto is to take things in stride, one at a time, and as we have a Davis cup to defend, and there are other championship tournaments ahead which I would like very much to win again, the professional situation, so far as I am concerned, will just have to wait."

Northeast Georgia Men Honor Coaches, Players

Joel Hunt Urges That All Pull Together, But Let One Man Steer.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 21.—Alumni and friends from all parts of northeast Georgia were present at a banquet here tonight in honor of the new coaching staff and football team of the University of Georgia.

Over 200 enthusiastic listeners heard Head Coach Joel Hunt plead for the alumni "to push together at all four wheels and let one man do the steering."

Hunt expressed hope that the alumni would not only assist the football players while in college but also after they had graduated.

At the conclusion of the speaking and upon the motion of Pat Lampkin, of Athens, a committee was appointed to work out plans for the organization of the entire group, whose purpose will be to aid in the promotion of athletics at the university.

The committee is composed of L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, chairman; T. O. Tabor, of Elberton; Charlie Costa, Lee Bradberry, Bob McWhorter and Max Michael, all of Athens.

Short, hefty Wallace Butts, new end coach, fairly stole the show, so to speak, with his stories and jokes, which kept the large gathering in an uproar.

The other mentors—Weems Baskin, Howell Hollis, Johnny Broadnax, Elmer Lampe, J. V. "Siki" Sikes and Hunt, himself, confined their talks to the more serious aspects of the gridiron.

Lee Bradberry, chairman of the dinner committee, welcomed the guests to the banquet and presented the toastmaster, Abit Nix.

Short talks were given by Mayor A. G. Dudley, of Athens; Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of Georgia; T. O. Tabor, of Elberton; W. O. Payne, director of athletics, and the coaches.

Chancellor S. V. Sanford was out of the city on business and could not be present.

Sports writers present included Ed Danforth, of Atlanta, and F. M. Williams, of Athens.

At the banquet, Howell Hollis, freshman coach, and Wallace Butts suddenly discovered they had played football against each other when Hollis was a freshman at Georgia and Butts was at G. M. C.

The organization of the alumni and friends tonight to support athletics at the university was considered as a part of a similar movement going on all over the state, in such cities as Macon, Savannah and Atlanta.

Coach Hunt in his speech also promised when material was available, the top-notch teams of the country would be brought to Athens for games.

He also said games had been scheduled within the next few years with Columbia, N. Y. U., Holy Cross and Dartmouth.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

By JOSEPH McCORD.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

"Well . . ." Terry shrugged resignedly. "If you feel like tossing away a bunch of money, I reckon nobody can stop you. And if you need any help that I can give you mean. You know you have only to ask. But I still don't quite get it—I wonder if you realize what you're getting into."

"May I ask how pretentious an establishment you expect to have? It's likely to prove an expensive hobby. People will take advantage of you."

"Crashers, you mean. That's a quaint custom, isn't it? Well, I don't know just how big a place I do want. It will depend on what I can find—might take a furnished place. But I've set my heart on having a butler—I've got to have a butler!" She smiled. "Maybe that will have something to do with the size of the apartment. I want a butler who's nice and insolent. And I'm going to have a personal maid. I want to have and do all the extravagant things I've read about ever since I was a little girl. It sounds foolish, I know."

"It certainly doesn't sound like you."

"Well," she mused, "I'm not so sure I am me any more. The ugly duckling's going in for swansdown. Are you thinking seriously of giving up your office, Terry?"

"Well—I suppose I couldn't on a day's notice. But I had about made up my mind to do something. The thing's gotten on my nerves so, I'm ready to go back home and ride fence. Of course I can take time to go around and help you locate a place."

"No, indeed! I wouldn't think of letting you do that. But I hope business will pick up enough for you to stay on awhile. Of course I'll have to have a housewarming and I'll need your help to make it a success. So, don't run away too soon."

"Oh, I won't. And I'll be glad to help you in any way I can. But I hope you'll be—just a little careful."

"Careful? How?"

"I reckon I was thinking about yesterday—what happened on the way to Severance's farm, you know. You'll be doing a lot of running around in crowds . . . silly, of course, but it worries me to think of your going about alone."

"Of course it's silly." Caradad frowned slightly. "I never carry much money and you know I don't wear jewelry. I'm perfectly able to look after myself."

"Sure. I guess it's a hangover from the days when I thought I had to ride herd on you. And, you know, you have been advertised, more or less." Terry brightened suddenly. "If you're going in for house furnishings and that sort of thing, why don't you hunt up Gerta? I wouldn't wonder if she'd have some ideas—rather artistic, her women friends say."

* * *

Terry's suggestion that Mrs. Greenway might prove a valuable ally only strengthened Caradad's determination to carry out her plans unaided. She did not care to have her movements and decisions discussed by her friends, be they well-meaning or merely curious.

She had noticed the offices of a rental agency not far from the Rushmore, an impressive-looking place whose proprietors advertised the handling of high-class properties. After several conferences and inspection tours, Caradad Vardell was the lessee of a 13-room furnished penthouse apartment facing the lake.

Thirteen . . . that caused the new tenant quiet amusement, mainly on Judge Pomphrette's account, for that jurist owned a half-shamed streak of superstition. However, if and when he visited the new quarters, he would be too outraged at the staggering rental to pay much attention to minor calamities.

She considered her new home as being furnished with good taste for the most part. To assure herself, she had the rooms scrutinized by an interior decorator who, when he discovered there was no starry-eyed customer to deal with, contented himself with reasonable recommendations.

The next problem was the help. Caradad had no definite ideas beyond a maid and a butler. The rental agents came to her aid by referring her to a dependable source of supply. Thither she went and made known her two wants and was favored by fortune beyond all expectation.

The first recruit for the household staff was a personable maid named Marie, whose references were all that they should have been. The greatest prize, however, was a butler who would have been an instant success in the films. He was hauteur personified and answered to the name of Wilberforce. He unbent sufficiently to let his new mistress know that occasionally he had been called Wilber. But Caradad would have none of it. He was Wilberforce.

There was but one drawback to Wilberforce. When he was alone with his employer, he persisted in being human. He discovered at once that Miss Vardell was totally inexperienced. With infinite tact, he let her know how many members constituted her required retinue, of what their duties consist, the wages that were in order. He had a way of conveying such information that he seemed only to be echoing and approving Caradad's own ideas. It was rather fascinating to interview the applicants and to pretend that it was an old story.

The quickness with which she had found her apartment and the completeness of its appointments made it relatively easy to keep the whole affair a secret. Caradad was rather vague when she answered Terry's interested queries. She had looked at several places, she admitted, but was not going to be rushed.

There were one or two more applicants to interview and Caradad requested they come to the new apartment where she was spending most of her time. Early one forenoon, she was rather startled by a subdued cough from Wilberforce, followed by the announcement that a gentleman was calling.

"Oh. You mean some one from the employment office? I . . ."

"Pardon me, ma'am. A gentleman is asking for you." There was a hint of reproof in the butler's voice, and Caradad hurried to her drawing room. To her amazement, John Severance occupied the center of the expensive rug. He was standing with his feet apart, hands behind his back, staring about him with unqualified disapproval.

"Well?" he greeted in a challenging fashion.

"Good morning . . ." Caradad managed. "How did you know I was here?"

"Simple enough. I dropped in at your agents' a while ago and they told me you had leased this place. It was quite in order. I happen to own the building."

"Oh," she said faintly. Then, "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you, no. May I ask what all this is about?"

"Of course. I decided that I wanted to have a home."

"I see. You wanted a home. I infer that you are about to marry and go to housekeeping."

"But I'm not! It's just for myself. I'm tired of the hotel—really no privacy at all. I wanted some place where I could be at home to my friends—as I am now," she finished with a smile.

Severance refused to be mollified. He looked about the huge room and his scowl deepened. "It's hard to believe that it was any idea of yours," he grudged.

"Of course it was," Caradad replied with some spirit. "All my own idea."

"I see. You want to run a place like Nick Tankersley's. It won't be any home—nothing but a menagerie. And certainly you weren't cut out for a zookeeper. How old are you?"

"Quite of legal age," she told him with unruffled candor. "You're thinking it would be nice if you could have a guardian appointed for me. It's ever so much too late."

"Why in the world you want to go in for all this, I don't know. You'll be overrun with parasites in no time. Tell me, Caradad . . . what are you doing it for? You don't belong in a place like this or among the people who will come here."

"I told you." she was trying to cover her surprise at hearing him call her by her name. "I guess I'm only human. I've wished all my life that I could do the things they do in books. Now, I can. I even have a butler."

"So I noticed. He looks as if he were out of a book, too."

"Wilberforce is rather a dear—if he likes you," she defended.

"Umph. All I hope is that your native good sense will come to your rescue before it's too late. If you want to break your lease any time, see me. But don't make it too long because I'm sailing for Australia in a few months."

"Oh, really!" An unconscious little sigh betrayed her.

"I am. I shouldn't bother about you, but I hate like the devil to leave you in a mess like this. I wish you'd be honest with me. Does all this sort of thing really appeal to you?"

"It's funny," she replied musingly. "I didn't suppose I would say this to anybody but myself. No. I don't like it at all. I don't belong here. These people really don't interest me—much. I don't understand them and they'll never understand me. I'm afraid of this whole thing—I'm even afraid of Wilberforce. There . . ." A suspicious quiver was in the last word. But Caradad laughed.

"I knew it all the time." Severance said gently, thoughtfully. "Why do you think you want to go through with it?"

"Well, I guess I sort of dared myself to."

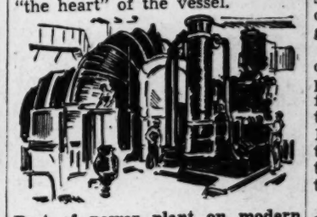
HEART OF AN OCEAN LINER.

What a sight is the engine room of an ocean liner! Almost filled with furnaces, boilers, generators and turbines, it may be called "the heart" of the vessel.



Part of power plant on modern liner.

A man's heart pumps blood around his body. If it stops pumping, he will die. The engine room supplies power to make the ship go. If it stopped working, the ship would be left to the mercy of tides and currents.

The engine room on this steamer is a great space which contains stairways and metal gratings. The gratings form floors of a sort, and there are machines at different levels. We may, however, call it one great room, with a height of about 50 feet.

An engineer, Mr. Alfred Groves, guided me around. First I looked at the furnaces, and saw 20 fireboxes which heat the main boilers. In the old days, every steamer had a crew of stokers to shovel coal into the furnaces. What hard, hot work it was!

Nowadays the more up-to-date steamers use oil for fuel. A small door on one furnace was opened for me, and inside I saw a sparkling flame.

The flames heat water in tubes, and the water is turned into steam in the boilers. "Super-heated" steam is produced with a pressure of 400 pounds to the square inch. This steam drives the turbines. It strikes against the fan-like blades of the turbines, and makes them go around.

There are three turbines and one giant gear-wheel for each propeller shaft. The wheel is 14 feet in diameter and weighs 32 tons. The turbines make it turn 1,700 times per minute. As it turns, it works gears which make the propeller shaft go around 100 times per minute.

The ship has two propellers, and each has its own shaft. Mr. Groves took me from the engine room to the rear of the boat, a distance of about 200 feet. All along the way I could see the shafts turning. The shafts are made of steel, and are about 20 inches in diameter.

The propellers end the story of how oil, or other fuel, can make a steamer move through water. Power goes from burning furnaces to steam boilers and turbines, then to gear-wheels, shafts and propellers. When the propellers turn at high speed, we travel more than 20 miles per hour.

CHINESE HALT FOES IN RAILHEAD THRUST ON CENTRAL FRONT

SHANGHAI, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Fighting within hearing distance of the vital Lunghai railway, Chinese today halted a Japanese attempt to cross the broad Yellow river in the western sector of the long central China front.

Farther west in Shansi province, however, Japanese columns continued their drive southward and were reported gradually closing in on Linfen, temporary provincial capital, 60 miles north of the river.

(Reports from Peiping said most of the Chinese below the river were believed to have withdrawn, leaving only a defense line along the south bank to delay the Japanese advance.)

Two Attacks Opened.

Chinese advices said mobile units, harrassing Japanese communication lines on the southern Lunghai front, had occupied Changpalin, near the Tientsin-Pukow line 50 miles from Nanking, and were attacking Mingkwang and Tingyuan in the same sector. This area on the east of the two-sided front had been occupied by northward advancing Japanese.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in an order issued at Hankow, directed Governors of Yunnan, Szechwan, Kweichow, Shensi and Kansu provinces to convert opium fields into farm lands in an effort to increase food supplies and curtail opium production.

Matsui Called to Tokyo.

Authoritative foreign quarters in Shanghai said General Iwane Matsui, commander of Japanese forces in central China, had left by air for Tokyo and that General Shunroku Hata had taken his place.

Japanese officials refused to comment on the reports, which said the general's departure was surrounded with such secrecy that only a few of the high command knew about it.

Matsui was reported recalled last Friday because of frequent breaches of discipline among his troops and public statements he made offending the United States and Great Britain.

Japanese Report Gains.

PEIPING, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Japanese army reported gains today on three fronts in its drive on the Lunghai railway corridor in central China.

Luanfu, a key city in southeast Shansi province at the intersection of mountain highways and 90 miles north of the Yellow river, fell to Japanese troops eleven hours after an attack was launched.

Like Father, Son! Well, Here's Proof

BEAUFORT, N. C., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Lee Fulcher and his son, William, tobacco farmers, came to town today and weighed.

Each weighed 225 pounds.

But that isn't all to the story.

The father was born February 19, 1896, on a Monday morning, at 12:15 o'clock.

The son was born February 19, 1917, on a Monday morning at—take the father's word for it—12:15 o'clock.

Each was born in the same house, in the same room.

Fulcher the elder is six feet, two. His son—you guessed it—six feet, two, too.

MISSISSIPPI SENATE PASSES 'DIVES' LAW

Two Measures To Padlock Gambling, Liquor Places Approved.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 21.—(AP) The state senate took up the cudgel today against "gambling and liquor dives" by approving two house bills to tighten up padlock laws.

The two bills would give chancery courts authority to padlock as a public nuisance any place openly selling liquor or operating gambling machines and place the operator under bond to prevent him from further violations for two years.

In explaining the bills, Senator Walter Capers, chairman of the judiciary committee, said they admittedly were to correct "a bad situation in one northeast Mississippi county where Memphis gambling and liquor dives have set up their places of business across the state line in Mississippi."

The bills, approved by the senate by a vote of 36 to 5, not only would padlock the nuisance, but would place the operator under a bond fixed by the chancery court prohibiting him from violating the liquor or gambling laws for two years. Conviction for a violation during that period would bring a forfeiture of the bond.

VIRGINIA SENATE TO ACT ON RELIEF

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 21.—(AP) The senate set the "streamline" relief bill today as a special and continuing order for 1 p. m. Wednesday, and committees of both branches of the general assembly prepared to act tomorrow on four recent appointments by Governor Price involving the replacement of heads of two state divisions.

Senator Aubrey Weaver, of Front Royal, chairman of the senate committee on nominations, said members of the committee were ready to act favorably on the four major appointments when they meet tomorrow at 11:45 a. m. with the house committee on confirmations.

GIRLS RUN 'HOME' ON $15 A MONTH

ATHENS, Feb. 21.—(AP)—At least 22 girls attending the University of Georgia will know something about household budgets when they are graduated from school.

They have been living here since the opening of the 1937-1838 term on less than $15 a month apiece, including food, rent, lights, water, gas and heat.

All are majoring in home economics. Household chores—everything except the cooking—are divided into 22 assignments, and each girl takes her turn during the school quarter.

Miss Marie Griffin, a junior from Nahunta, and chairman of the house committee, said the plan was to give each girl actual experience in the practice of home economics in addition to reducing expenses.

Fund To Be Rebated.

She said each girl paid $15 a month into the co-operative fund, but that for the first quarter, they have $100 in rebates to divide at the end of the year, and expect to save as much in the second quarter.

The girls have a house on the university campus, which is not only spic and span but is operated smoothly on a co-operative constitution.

Miss Griffin said one of the routine chores is that of homemaker, a task shared by two girls for two weeks. They make up the menus, buy groceries, keep records of all purchases, supervise the kitchen and act as hostesses at meal times.

Sample Menus.

She reached into a file for a sample menu, pulled out this one at random: For breakfast, cereal, scrambled eggs, biscuits, stewed dried apples, coffee; for lunch, vegetable soup, banana sandwiches, croutons; for dinner, Irish stew, string beans, slaw, bran muffins, hot gingerbread and lemon sauce.

Make Own Curtains.

Curtains for the home were made by the girls. The work is so divided that none of it is exacting, or takes too much time away from study. In fact, two girls are assigned to the study room, to keep it warm, clean and quiet.

A basement room has been converted into the dining room, and three girls keep it supplied with flowers, a touch Miss Griffin regards as an important part of home-making.

Furthermore, the menu is so flexible that the girls may have guests for meals—if they pay 20 cents for each meal into the co-op fund.

Brothers---and Sisters, Too---Have Same Birthday

Happy birthday and—wham! February 19 was a painful day for the three Willingham brothers of Route 4, Bolton. Each was born on the same day, in different years. Years ago, when Jack, 12, on the right, was barely able to handle a paddle, these brothers began the practice of giving each other the traditional licks. The youth with the pained expression is Coney. Coney was 17 Saturday. Billy, left, was also 15.

CONVICTS 'STRIKE' TO GO TO NEW PEN

Berrien County Sit-Down is Quickly Halted by Guards With Tear Gas.

NASHVILLE, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Misinformation from the prison "grapevine" system caused a sit-down strike among Berrien county convicts today and it took four shots of tear gas to end the demonstration.

Sheriff N. N. Hughes said 17 negro convicts got the idea they would have less work to do and escape punishment for any infractions if they could get transferred to the new Tattnall prison at Reidsville. They refused to come out of their cells for breakfast or start work at the county convict camp today, the officer said.

All asked to be transferred to Tattnall. Prison guards tried to set them straight about what they would find at the new prison, but arguments failed. Officers went to Valdosta for tear gas and the negroes changed their minds about "sitting down" immediately after four shells were fired into their quarters. Hughes said none of the prisoners suffered serious effects from the gas.

Thirty-five other prisoners, both white and negro, took no part in the strike.

"The sit-downers simply didn't have their facts straight," Sheriff Hughes said. "This is one of the best convict camps in the state. Warden Steve Nix never has had any trouble before."

The sheriff said all of the 17 involved returned to work shortly after noon.

Three Held for Kidnaping Baby Charge Mother Gave It to Them

ROCKVILLE, Md., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Three persons held in jail here said today that 18-month-old Nelson Booth had been given them "because his mother didn't want him."

Detective Sergeant Bodmer quoted Virginia police as saying kidnaping warrants had been issued for the trio. Bodmer arrested them in a cabin near Quince Orchard, Md., while he was seeking robbers who took $66 from the Dickerson, Md., post office Saturday.

The three held are:

Harry C. Esteppe, 28, formerly of Gordonsville, Va.; his wife, Elizabeth, 18, an expectant mother, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Lee, 41, of Danville, Va.

Lynchburg police were en route here tonight, Bodmer said, to serve the warrants obtained by Mrs. Lorine Booth, mother of the child who said a woman snatched the baby from her January 25 at the doorstep of her mountain cabin in Porters Mountain, Va., and ran to a car driven by a man. Another woman was in the car with him, she told police.

"We were stopping at a restaurant in Gordonsville and I said to somebody I would like to have a little boy like the one playing in the place," said Mrs. Lee. "They told me there was a woman in the mountain who wanted to give one away.

"We drove up to the house but couldn't get to it because of the road. So we stopped about a half mile away and I went there by myself. When I got there, a lady who said she was Lorine Atkins told me she didn't want him and gave him to me. A boy, about 14 years old, carried him to the automobile. I didn't grab him and run."

Esteppe and his wife, who said they remained in the automobile, corroborated the latter part of her story.

DR. G. E. HALE, 70, ASTRONOMER, DIES

Active in Founding Mt. Wilson, Palomar Observatories.

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 21.—(AP) Dr. George Ellery Hale, 70, widely known astronomer called by his colleagues "the priest of the sun," died today of heart disease in the Las Encinas sanitarium.

Dra. Hale was active in founding the Yerkes observatory in Chicago and the Mount Wilson Palomora Mountain observatories in California.

His scientific research was concentrated on solar and stellar spectroscopy. He discovered that the outer shell of the sun was gaseous.

ONE-VARIETY COTTON PROVING PROFITABLE

CARROLLTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Carroll county farmers collected an extra $115,000 on their cotton crop last year by co-operating in the one-variety cotton plan, County Agricultural Agent G. F. Wiley estimated today.

He said growers figured additional profits of $5 an acres on the one-variety plan. "This meant $75,000 premium on the 15,000 acres in the one-variety communities, plus $40,000 from the adopted variety acreage."

In 1933, Carroll countians were planting 43 varieties of cotton, Wiley said, and last year the varieties had been reduced to 22, with 11 communities on the one-variety plan.

9 PERSONS ARRESTED BY NARCOTIC AGENTS

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Seven men and two women were arrested late tonight as federal narcotics agents opened a drive to smash the Boston branch of the "largest narcotics ring in the country."

Four men were described as ring leaders of the Boston operations who did not handle the sales but directed distribution.

TROUBLES ROUTED BY MRS. C. P. ROSS

A beloved member of the Center Street Methodist church and chairman of the ways and means committee of Circle No. 4, Mrs. C. P. Ross, 1041 Hemphill avenue, who has lived in this neighborhood for the past 15 years, recently wrote the following letter: "About two weeks ago I took a bad cold in my bronchial tubes. I ached all over and a terrible cough kept me from sleeping at night. I tried several remedies but continued to suffer. I get my medicines at the State Street Pharmacy and Dr. Nicholson recommended that I try Mentho-Mulsion. After taking only three doses I began to feel much better. It loosened up my bronchial tubes, stopped my cough and had a most soothing effect on my throat. I liked Mentho-Mulsion so much that I insisted that my daughter take a bottle of it home with her. Mentho-Mulsion costs me only 75c a bottle and you may be sure that I will always keep a bottle of it on hand in my home."—(adv.)

Fifth Attempt To Scale Mt. Everest Is Planned by Seven Britishers

Group Will Assemble Shortly at Kalimpong; Climb Set for April.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

CALCUTTA, Feb. 21.—W. H. Tilman, leader of the 1938 British expedition to climb Mount Everest, has arrived in India with E. E. Shipton. Other members are en route, and the party will assemble shortly at Kalimpong, preparatory to marching up through Sikkim to the site of their base camp, which will probably be established toward the middle of April.

The expedition of this year is the seventh to visit the mountain, and the fifth to attempt to climb it.

Seven Climbers in Party.

The present party numbers seven climbers, one fewer than it has been on three previous occasions. In alphabetical order the personnel includes Peter Lloyd, 30; N. E. Odell, 47; Captain P. R. Oliver, whose age is not given; E. E. Shipton, 30; F. S. Smythe, 37; W. H. Tilman, 39, and Dr. C. B. M. Warren, 32. There is no wireless or transport officer, and a doctor is included because he happens to be a climber.

Through the offices of J. B. Gould, the political officer at Gangtok, transport arrangements in Sikkim will be made by the Sikkim durbar; in Tibet they will be made by Karma Paul, a Tibetan resident in Darjeeling, who has accompanied every Mt. Everest expedition except the first in the same capacity. Members of the party, Europeans and Sherpas, will, of course, have to assist.

Good Chance Believed.

It is the opinion of those responsible for financing the present expedition—namely, friends and members of the party—that a party of this size has at least as good a chance as a large one. The view has been expressed that any number more than one constitutes a large party—but it is not merely a question of how many Europeans; equally significant is the number of porters and the amount of food and equipment with which the party is burdened.

For mountain exploration and for peaks up to, say, 26,000 feet, the small mobile party has proved its worth, while success has not yet attended any of the big expeditions. It is up to this year's expedition to answer the question: "How can the less comprehend the greater?"

The weather remains incalculable. Rain and snow fall upon the just and the unjust, upon the large party and the small. The 1938 party hopes that a less ostentatious approach may secure smiles instead of frowns.

Adkins, junior law student at the University of Miami and son of Dr. E. H. Adkins, well-known Miami surgeon, returned late today from a trip to Havana to make plans for the wedding. He said he and his bride would reside here.

New China With 'Golden' Destiny Being Born, Generalissmo Says

By MON' GARDNER.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HANKOW, China, Feb. 7.—(By Airmail)—"A new China is being born in the west," said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, China's leader, when he received the writer in the small, cozy living room of his temporary home in Hankow.

His deep-set, luminous eyes were fixed on the far horizons of China's vast west as he spoke, and his low unaccented tones were not those of prophecy, but of fact.

"Hordes of Homeless."

"The Japanese militarists have blasted us into one of the most gigantic reclamation projects ever known in human history. More than 10,000,000 of our people have been made homeless by Japan's invasion. These hordes of homeless humanity have begun their trek westward in search of new homes. Besides this mass migration, the wanderings of the Israelites, of the Greeks and Armenians during the Greco-Turk War, and of the Belgians when their country was invaded by German soldiers, were small in comparison.

"The west will be the cradle of a new China, built upon China's classical virtues, but unified with new ideals of equality of all her people."

"I am not speaking as a visionary. Nor am I voicing inner hopes. I am speaking of reality!"

"Golden Destiny."

"When peace comes and military matters require less concentration, I shall devote my time to social and economic reforms for China. Always these have been the studies which interested me.

"The obstacle to China's peaceful pursuit of economic and social development has been the Japanese militarists, who, in their inordinate desire for world power, have coveted China's rich natural resources.

"The disastrous effects upon Japan of the present war should rid that country completely of military domination. With this great menace to peace removed, China will be able to work out what I believe will be a 'golden' desiny!"

The association of ministers represents the 72 white Baptist churches of Greater Atlanta, with a membership of more than 52,000 persons. The resolution stated:

"The death of Francis W. Clarke, executive editor of The Constitution, takes from Atlanta one of her most influential citizens and one of the most powerful allies of the churches.

"In an address before our association last autumn on 'The Press and the Pulpit,' he pointed to the growing spirit of co-operation between the press and pulpit as one of the most wholesome signs of the times, and Mr. Clarke had done much to create this fine relationship between the churches and the press in Atlanta and throughout Georgia.

"Loss to the Churches."

"We deeply feel the sense of loss to the churches and to all kindred interests in the passing of this distinguished and beloved journalist, and we desire to register anew our unceasing appreciation of his great contribution to his day and generation, and to pledge ourselves in renewed consecration to those noble and practical causes to which he gave himself with such surpassing devotion.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes, a copy sent to Mrs. Clarke, a copy to The Constitution and a copy to the Christian Index."

The resolution was signed by Samuel A. Cowan, secretary.

Resolution by City Council.

In a rising, unanimous vote, a resolution introduced by Councilman John A. White was adopted yesterday afternoon by city council.

"Whereas, on the 20th day of February, 1938, the city of Atlanta, the state of Georgia and the entire democracy of the south suffered an irreparable loss in the untimely demise of one of its noblest sons, the Hon. Francis W. Clarke, and

"Whereas, it is well recognized by all who knew him that his life had been one of devotion to duty and to the upbuilding of his community, morally, politically and intellectually; be it therefore,

"Resolved, by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, that we express to the family of our deceased friend, to The Atlanta Constitution, and to the people of this community, whom he so faithfully served, our deepest and most sincere regret at his untimely death.

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Hon. Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, and to the members of the family of the said Francis W. Clarke."

Personal Regret Voiced.

Many council members also expressed personal regret at the death of Mr. Clarke, among them Councilman Frank Beck, who said: "Francis W. Clarke was my friend for 30 years. He was a highly valuable man whose loss cannot be estimated."

The message from Jere N. Moore, president of the Georgia Press Association, said:

"Francis Clarke's death is a great loss to the entire newspaper profession. I extend to you and those of your paper my sympathy."

Mr. Stanley's message read:

"Speaking for Jere N. Moore, president of the Georgia Press Association, as well as myself, great sympathy is herewith extended over the untimely death of Francis W. Clarke, executive editor of The Atlanta Constitution, which is truly a matter of great regret.

"Not only will his death be calamitous to his relatives and associates on The Atlanta Constitution, but cannot but be felt wherever The Constitution circulates and his work is known.

"A newspaperman of great ability and a private citizen of high character has gone to his reward."

Congressmen Voice Esteem.

Congressman Cox wrote:

"Francis Clarke was a great newspaperman, an outstanding citizen and a devoted friend. I join with all Georgians in mourning his untimely passing."

Senator Richard B. Russell, another staunch friend of Mr. Clarke, declared in a telegram: "Francis W. Clarke was a representative of the finest type and highest traditions of American journalism, and I deeply regret to hear of his passing."

Senator George's telegram said: "The Constitution and the press of the southeast have sustained a great loss in the passing of Francis Clarke. He served the state faithfully and will be missed by our people."

The telegram from Borglum read:

"Shocked and depressed. There can be no consolation in such a loss. We must bear it. My love to you and Mrs. Clarke."

Ramspeck Distressed.

Congressman Ramspeck wired: "We are distressed to hear of your great sorrow. Deepest sympathy." ——. Sato, Japanese consul, wired: "I am shocked with the news of the death of your beloved husband and wish to offer deepest condolences."

Surviving Mr. Clarke are his wife, the former Miss Laura Belle Burdine; a brother, Edward Young Clarke, of Chicago, and a nephew, Samuel Clarke, a member of The Constitution staff.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 21.—(AP) The Valdosta Daily Times, announcing an increase in subscription rates, advised readers it was no longer possible for the newspaper to "absorb all of the multitudinous taxes and other increased costs."

The paper, in a front page notice, said an advance of $10 a ton in the price of paper, together with other rapidly mounting costs of publication, force us to increase rates of carrier-delivered papers."

Death of Francis W. Clarke Widely Felt

Please accept our sincere sympathy on the death of Francis W. Clarke. In his untimely death The Constitution has lost a great editor and Georgia suffers loss of a distinguished citizen.

C. H. LEAVY,
Editor, Brunswick News.

I join with thousands of others in mourning the death of Francis W. Clarke, executive editor of The Atlanta Constitution. His devotion to duty and his fine qualities endeared him to those of us who were privileged to know him. Please accept my deep sympathy in this great loss.

W. F. CALDWELL,
News Editor, Southern Division, Associated Press.

I beg to offer my sincere sympathy in the loss of a dear friend and splendid newspaperman.

MARION KENDRICK,
News Editor, New York Office, Associated Press.

I mourn the departure of my first chief, Francis W. Clarke, and stand in reverent salute at the passing of one of the finest newspapermen that Georgia has ever produced. His contribution to Georgia journalism will not soon be forgotten, nor its sterling effects lost in the passing of the years.

NELSON M. SHIPP,
Sunday Editor, Columbus Ledger-Enquirer.

We were distressed to learn of the death of Francis W. Clarke. His passing is not only a loss to The Constitution but to his many friends everywhere.

EDWIN MOSS WILLIAMS,
Vice President, United Press.

Am stunned to learn of the untimely death of Francis Clarke. It seems a shame that a man so young and so bright should be taken so suddenly. Will you please convey to his family and associates the sincere sympathy of myself and staff.

ARTHUR W. CRAWFORD,
General Manager, Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, Inc.

Journalism faculty extends sympathy to his colleagues on The Constitution and members of his family in the passing of Francis W. Clarke, for whom we had much admiration and respect.

JOHN E. DREWRY,
Director, Henry W. Grady School of Journalism.

Please accept assurances of my heartfelt sympathy and sorrow in the death of Francis W. Clarke. I had known him for nearly three decades, and in his death southern journalism sustains a heavy loss.

ERNEST CAMP,
Editor, Walton County Tribune.

In these times when the south needs all of its stout defenders in the field of journalism, the death of Francis W. Clarke is especially tragic. His shrewdness in discerning movements inimical to the south and his high courage in resisting these movements from whatever source was an inspiration to multitudes. His work was in line with the finest traditions of The Constitution, carried on under such men as Henry W. Grady and Clark Howell Sr., and the loss to the south is very great.

JOHN HORNADY.
Editor, The Rome News Tribune.

BEVERLY KELLEY,
Former Theatrical Press Man.

The death of Francis Clarke removes one of the most promising factors in American journalism. Brilliant, capable, popular, he was destined to be a great force in the development of Georgia and the south, and the nation can ill afford his loss. My deepest sympathy to your organization and to his family.

AUBREY MILAM.
Pres.-Treasurer, Green & Milam.

In the passing of Francis W. Clarke, the south loses a constructive builder, the state a loyal citizen, Atlanta one of its most progressive spirits, and The Constitution a newspaperman steeped in the traditions of The Constitution and reflecting, as nearly as possible, the high ideals of his former chief, and mine, Clark Howell Sr. I mourn with The Constitution and his family in his passing.

ERNEST E. DALLIS.
Johnson Dallis Company.

Mr. Clarke was an adventurous traveler, but in the prime of his princely manhood, with physical strength unabated, mental alertness untrameled and spiritual vision unclouded, he has made the greatest adventure on that "journey whence no traveler returns."

His loyalty and love for everyone he had worked with in The Constitution helped him to reach the top rung of the ladder of fame.

His was a career that many a restless, roaming and roving spirit might emulate in this nervous, chaotic and uncertain age.

DR. WALT HOLCOMB,
Pastor Calvary Methodist Church.

"So sorry to learn of the homegoing of Francis W. Clarke, executive editor of The Atlanta Constitution. The last two conferences I had with him were in the interest of Georgia's school children.

"He was one of the finest men whom I have ever known. I had supreme confidence in his judgment, integrity and ability to evaluate the worth of principles, programs and policies. May the God of all graces be with him and his abundantly and always."

M. D. COLLINS,
State Superintendent of Schools.

I have seen Francis Clarke, in the 20 years that I have known him and worked with him, move onward from desk to desk, from usefulness to greater usefulness, until he occupied the executive editor's chair, and always he was the same Francis Clarke—passionately sincere—unswervingly courageous, faithfully true to convictions—alertly fair—gracious, generous, magnanimous. I loved him. I cherish his every memory as a fragrant benediction. And now! The sunshine of this first day without Francis Clarke in Atlanta seems to speak to our lonely hearts the eternal message of Hope—that Hope which shines on across the hills and valleys of the earthly journey—the Kindly Light. And for him, we know that "there was no moaning of the bar, when he put out to sea"—that forever and forever, he is in the "land that is fairer than day."

LOUIE D. NEWTON.
Pastor, Druid Hills Baptist Church.

Sincerely sympathize in the passing of Francis Clarke. His life was an inspiration to all who came in contact with him. Convey our condolences to his bereaved family.

ISADOR GELDERS.
Publish, Fitzgerald Leader.

The passing of Francis W. Clarke is a distinct loss to this community and state. He was one of the most able newspapermen I ever knew and was a close personal friend. I sincerely regret his untimely passing.

JERE A. WELLS,
Superintendent, Fulton County Schools

The Constitution has lost a stalwart and the state of Georgia a great exponent in the passing of Francis W. Clarke. Although he was born in Atlanta and lived here all his life, he had a thorough knowledge of Georgia, and his vision of a newspaper was one that would serve the people of the state as a whole, and not just Atlanta.

STILES A. MARTIN,
Georgia Department of Agriculture.

I cannot let this sad occasion go by without a word of praise for the departed Francis W. Clarke, nor can I let this opportunity pass without saying a word about The Atlanta Constitution, a truly great newspaper. Mr. Clarke was one of those eminent newspapermen who formed an integral part of The Atlanta Constitution, which during my lifetime has developed outstanding men in the newspaper field. My colleagues join me in proffering heartfelt condolence.

WALTER H. RICH,
President, Rich's, Inc.

The death of Francis Clarke is a loss too great for words of sympathy to have much meaning. Certainly any words of praise from me to those who knew him and loved him would be out of place. We have lost a great and good friend whose stature could not be concealed by his self-effacing modesty. He was more than a trustworthy official of The Constitution, he was part of it and it of him. Your loss is shared by all of those everywhere who cherish the high professional and personal ideals which he so well exemplified. Please express my sympathy to his family and associates.

LEGARE DAVIS,
Advertising Manager, Atlanta Gas Light Company.

Terribly shocked to hear the distressing news. All of my sympathy in your sorrow. I have lost one of the most agreeable of companions and a true understanding friend.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Washington correspondent of The Constitution.

I am shocked and grieved to learn of Francis Clarke's passing. My sincerest sympathy and love in this dark hour.

HUGH ROWE,
Publisher Athens Banner-Herald.

Our very deepest sympathy and understanding.

REVEREND AND MRS. HERMAN TURNER.

My deepest sympathy in your great loss.

Musicians Wanted For Army Bands

Two weks ago he sent out a call for men who could play these three instruments. He offered to give them all their clothes, to feed and house them and to supply them with $21 cash—as a starter—to play in his army bands.

The proposition is still open. He even went further and explained musicians who could qualify could be retired after 30 years with a pension as high as $133 per month.

The army also needs 10 clerks and mechanics, but for other than these 13 positions recruiting has closed. The army is full, the recruiting office announced.

LEADERSHIP IN GEORGIA is leadership indeed!

These twenty towns led Georgia, in 1937, in the use of residential electric service. Opposite the name of each town is the number of kilowatt hours used during the year, on the average, per home.

WOODBINE	3174.1
BAXLEY	2452.4
WARM SPRINGS	2422.2

CLARKSTON	2120.2
CHIPLEY	2088.8
LYONS	2082.2
SOPERTON	2081.5
BUENA VISTA	2043.9

EVERY man and woman in Georgia can feel a genuine pride in the record of these twenty well-known Georgia towns that led the state in 1937 in use of residential electric service.

The average home in Woodbine, a southeast Georgia town with a population of about 400, used almost four times the amount of electric service used by the average home throughout America in 1937.

All the homes in the United States used last year an average of 803 kilowatt hours per home, while homes on the lines of the Georgia Power Company used an average of 1313.4 kilowatt hours per home — or 63.6 per cent more than the national average! The familiar towns you see listed here made even more startling records.

Use of low-cost electric service is increasing month by month in our Georgia homes; in cities, small towns and on the farms. No state east of the Rocky Mountains surpasses Georgia in putting electric service to work at doing our household jobs, making our homes more attractive, creating refreshing leisure for Georgia women, giving them more time—more youth in which to enjoy the wholesome things of life!

Letters and Photographs Reveal Many Interesting Phases of Cruise

By Sally Forth.

THIS is the time of the year when letters and pictures from travelers in foreign countries reveal interesting phases connected with their trips. Atlantans making the Mediterranean cruise on the S. S. Roma and who are having exciting experiences, include Elkin Goddard, Sasa Smith, Beverly Bailey, Mrs. Whitman McGonigal, Mrs. Roland Alston, Mrs. Inman Sanders and Willis Jones.

On board the same ship is the beautiful moving picture star, Dolores Del Rio, and her husband, Cedric Gibbons, whom the Atlantans met and found very friendly and attractive. Charles A. Dana, of New York, gave a dinner for the beautiful actress and among the guests at the gala affair were his daughter, Agnes Ladson Dana; his son, Charles A. Dana Jr.; Mrs. Whitman McGonigal and Willis Jones.

Agnes Dana made her debut in New York society last autumn, and is the namesake of her mother, the former Agnes Ladson, of Atlanta. One of the photographs received in Atlanta shows Mr. Dana, Dolores Del Rio, Cedric Gibbons, Agnes and Charles Dana, Mrs. McGonigal and Willis sipping delectable beverages in the cocktail room on the Roma.

When the Roma was due to reach the Madeira Islands on the voyage, the Atlantans arose at 5 o'clock to watch the glorious sunrise. The red roofs of the houses built on the lofty mountains that appeared to rise right out of the sea, vied with the tropical green of the trees and plants to produce an intriguing sight. Pretty flower girls wearing red, white, green and yellow striped dresses met the steamer and offered large bunches of calla lilies, camellias and gardenias for 25 cents each to the Atlantans.

A photograph of Margaret Chenoweth, of Birmingham; Elkin Goddard and Willis Jones depicts the happy trio seated in a sleigh to take the trip up the side of the steep mountain. Arrayed in native costume and holding a heavy rope in his hand, a man stood on each side of the sleigh to guide and keep it in the narrow roadbed leading up the mountain.

BOYS, here's a tip for you that may be well worth having. Sally has just heard of two popular young Atlanta men who were recently invited to a dance at a near-by girls' college. All was well until the Atlantans learned via some grapevine wire that the dance would be a "girls' break" affair. That wasn't so good, for they had accepted without knowing any of the girls, except very casually.

Into a huddle they went for ways and means, and out they came with a great idea. When the evening of the dance arrived, the gentlemen appeared accompanied by a small bag and a huge box of flowers.

As the dance progressed, each young lady who broke on Sally's friends was awarded a small flower, while those who failed to break went flowerless. At the end of the evening the young lady possessing the largest number of posies was rewarded with a luscious box of bon-bons. Needless to say the young men proved the "beaux of the ball."

ONE of the grand parties of the week end was that which Atlanta's own Mr. and Mrs. Everett Strupper Jr. attended Saturday in Columbus. The couple who motored to the near-by Georgia city for the week end were guests of Mrs. Strupper Sr. and were listed among the prominent out-of-town guests attending "the cruise ball" given Saturday at the Country Club by the Junior League.

A group of friends of long standing gathered for the party for the Atlantans, which was given at the Night Owl, and preceded the ball. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. George Golden, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cargill, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Passailaigue, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Chancellor, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Scarbrough, Dr. and Mrs. Bert Tillery, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hardaway Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pease, Mr. and Mrs. Madden Hatcher and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ellis.

Miss Wilcox To Wed W. W. Matthews

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Miss Catherine Rawling Wilcox will become the bride of William Wright Matthews, of New York, at a ceremony to be solemnized on Wednesday. The couple obtained a license here last week and announced their intention to wed.

Miss Wilcox is the beautiful young daughter of Mrs. Frank Schlesinger, of New Haven, Conn., and the late Philip Wakeman Wilcox, of Atlanta, Ga. She was born and reared in Atlanta and attended Washington Seminary in that city. Her stepfather, Frank Schlesinger, is head of the department of astronomy at Yale.

Mr. Matthews is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hall Matthews.

Greenblatt---Schneider.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Greenblatt announce the marriage of their daughter, Alene, to Lawrence L. Schneider, of London and New York. The ceremony took place on February 20 and was performed by Rabbi David Marx in the presence of the immediate family. After a wedding breakfast the couple left for their honeymoon trip.

Lace Curtains Are the Center of the Stage Once More

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday.—I went with a friend to hear "Lohengrin" yesterday afternoon. It was the first time I had heard Kirsten Flagstad in an opera and I consider it a very great experience. She seems, perfectly unconsciously, to be a great artist.

When she comes before the curtain and does her little curtsy, she is an entirely different person than the one you have just seen and heard as "Elsa" on the stage. That marvelous voice and such great simplicity, little of what might be termed acting, and yet the ability to seem young, to seem majestic, change her into the role she is singing. This is the great artist, who seems to understand all human emotions and to be able to portray them. There is a curious sense of reverence in the contact with something really simply and really great.

In order to make my train to Hyde Park, I had to leave before the end, and so, because I did not want to scramble over people's feet between the two scenes, I stood during the first scene of the last act. I am not fond of standing, and yet, I completely forgot the people around me and my own discomfort and only heard the music.

It was raining lightly when I came out, but I decided to walk to the station. As I picked my way through the crowds and over the puddles, a policeman on Broadway recognized me and escorted me across. His greeting was so cordial and pleasant, I almost forgot it was raining and cheerfully stepped into a puddle, thinking how much more important a pleasant smile is than the state of weather or the pavement.

I was back in Hyde Park in time for dinner and found a very happy family there. Everyone wished hard that snow might fall and this morning we woke to find a blanket of snow. Now we can all tease my husband and tell him he must be careful about what he wishes for, since this wish came true so rapidly.

It comes over me so often how all of us live from day to day wrapped up in our own little interests and happenings. We really think very little about what the rest of the world goes through.

This morning I looked at the pictures in the paper of Anthony Eden and Neville Chamberlain, and both looked harassed and deeply troubled. It made me realize more vividly the crisis facing so many European nations. Yet, even in those countries, people, like ourselves, go on with their daily lives and probably think as little as we do about what may face them the next day. It is better for us all, I suppose, not to live too much in the future.

HEALTH TALKS

CALCIUM ASSIMILATION.

Some one sent in a queer query the other day. It seems a smart-aleck magazine writer—it is strange how popular magazines prefer articles written by glib professional writers to articles by competent scientific writers, especially when the subject is a technical one about which the smart-aleck has no fundamental knowledge—had advised the gullible readers that they had better "soften" milk as hard water is softened, for milk, the smart-aleck opined, contains too much lime and is better suited for calves, pigs and goats than for human consumption.

One of the chief reasons why everybody should include at least a pint, better a quart of fresh milk in his or her daily diet, is that milk is an excellent source of calcium or lime for the human metabolism. The form in which calcium or lime occurs in milk—there is approximately 15 grains of calcium in the quart of milk—is well suited to the human assimilation.

Nutrition authorities, notably Professor H. C. Sherman, believe that the ordinary mixed diet of Americans and Europeans, especially dwellers in cities and towns, is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element. This is in part attributable to the tendency to stint the allowance of milk in the diet, from mistaken notions of economy or in some instances from misguidance.

A ten weeks' course of calcium lactate treatment—ten grains after food three times a day or 30 grains after food once a day—has proved extraordinarily beneficial in numerous common ailments, such as hay fever, asthma, hives, angioneurotic edema, migraine, adult tetany (leg cramps), hyperesthetic rhinitis and various allergic conditions. Such experience supports the assumption that some fault in calcium metabolism, assimilation, utilization is at least a contributing cause of these troubles.

We know that an adequate daily ration of vitamin D is essential for normal calcium assimilation, absorption, metabolism, utilization in the body. Vitamin D is the "sunshine" vitamin—so-called because, if you are exposed to direct midday sunshine, your skin will generate more or less vitamin D under influence of the invisible ultraviolet rays. But few individuals can manufacture sufficient vitamin D for the requirements of health by such means, in our climate and under our civilized restrictions.

No natural foods supply enough vitamin D for optimal nutrition—better than average health—vite. Milk, cream, butter, egg yolk, oysters, salmon fresh or canned, are practically the only natural foods that contain any vitamin D to speak of, and rarely can any one consume enough of any or all of these to get an optimal ration of vitamin D.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Anemia of Brain.

What is the cause of anemia of the brain and what can be done for it? What are the symptoms? (Mrs. C. B.)

Answer—Ah, ah, naughty! By rights, the doctor asks the patient what her symptoms are. Anemia of the brain is just a speculation. In fainting, shock and similar states there is insufficient blood supply to the brain—theoretically. It has no special significance. It calls for only such treatment as the patient's general condition may require.

Bed Wetting.

Wrote you some time ago about boy wetting bed. Followed your instructions, and in a few weeks he was over it and has had no further trouble. (Mrs. M. S.)

Answer—Glad to send instructions for correction of bed-wetting to any reader on request, if three-cent-stamped envelope bearing the correct address is enclosed. Do not send a clipping. Do not send loose stamps.

Your Figure, Madame

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

Betty Grable, whose posture is as straight and figure as slim as an arrow, is one of the Paramount starlets who find in archery both good sport and valuable exercise.

TEEN AGE REDUCERS SHOULD TAKE NO RISKS.

There is no stopping youth! There are no limits to its capacity for courage, self-denial and disregard of consequences. The recent death of the University of Missouri co-ed from an overdose of dinitrophenol to reduce her weight should, however, serve as a deterrent to every teen-age girl.

Dinitrophenol is a reducing drug. Any reducing drug is extremely dangerous for any age. This particular drug is one of the most dangerous, for if it does not lead to death it may produce cataract of the eye and blindness. What a risk for youth to take!

Physicians at the University of Missouri did not then, nor would they ever, prescribe or recommend any type of reducing drug to a college student. It was like many other cases, the culmination of a reckless decision to get slim at any cost.

I do not blame any young girl for not wanting to be fat, but there is a vast difference between overweight and teen-age chubbiness. The five or ten extra pounds needed at this age for health are not enough to make you look fat. Curves go with youth, as the envious older woman will tell you.

If you are actually overweight, see your doctor and get his help in losing weight safely. In advising the amount you should lose he will take into account your structure as well as your height.

I would like to be 18 and know what I know now! It is my honest conviction that any young girl can bring herself up to be a beauty. This would be my beauty formula for you:

Learn to like the foods that will keep you fit, but not fat. Your food habits always control your weight. Fruit, vegetables, milk and eggs are the real beauty foods. Desserts, candies and in-between-meal beverages are the foods that pile on fat.

Those of you who are really overweight for your structure can easily diet. Avoid the fat part of the meat, take only one pat of butter at a meal, limit bread to four slices of whole wheat per day, drink three glasses of skim milk or buttermilk and eat only fruit for dessert.

Go in for every possible sport. By learning to do some sports well, you will assure enjoyment of these activities through the years and you will always have a good figure.

Posture is as important to beauty as any single item. Bring your figure up right. Stand and sit as tall as you can. Strengthen your muscles in correct posture and you will not want to slump.

Get your nine hours of beauty sleep every night. It will help you to look young and fresh in your thirties. . . . You will want to look young then.

Do you wonder how the young screen starlets can look so beautiful? They tell me that they do not smoke, drink or diet. They get plenty of sleep and they keep fit and trim through sports.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: For the first six months of our marriage we were perfectly happy, so adored each other and had loads of fun. Then my husband said that we must move in with his mother and sister, for six months only, promising that we would have a place of our own at the first of the year. Here we are, not a word from him about leaving. His mother and sister think what's mine is his and what's his is theirs. They criticize me if I don't stay at home but the sister can ride around all day in a car my husband bought. They resent my giving my family a gift but they take all they can get from my husband. I have been hurt so much I am sore with the whole shebang. Have you any advice to give me. R.

Answer: That's an old trap your husband set for you, my poor girl, the sort men have set for their wives for ages. What usually happens is just what happened in your case: the wife walks in blithely believing what her husband has said, that the sojourn will be short and sweet and she will soon come out none the worse for the experience. Then the trap is sprung and the life sentence begun. "All ye who enter here leave hope behind."

Why a man will take such a mean advantage of the woman he loves is a mystery unless it is that he loves a dollar more than her. Why he will hazard his own and her happiness in this way is also a mystery unless it is that he values a dollar more than happiness. Apart from the money saved there's nothing to be said in favor of the two-in-one living; for if the wife is against the combination she's wretched and everyone acquainted with human nature knows a wretched wife won't let anybody be happy—certainly not the husband whom she blames for the mess she's in.

Even here the husband has the drop on her for he's out and gone most of the day, utterly oblivious of what's going on at home. When he gets back the tales he hears from wife and mother don't tally (he naturally believes his mother won't lie) and rather than unravel the tangled skein, he skips the whole business and tells his wife, as though she were a pettish child, to forget it.

The only advice I have to offer is don't nag but try to trade with your husband to move out to yourselves. And don't let yourself become involved in rows with the in-laws for you will inevitably get the worst of them. And don't greet your husband with gripes about the way they are mistreating you. He won't believe them. If things get so hot you can't bear it, go out and get yourself a job. The work will divert you, take you out of the mare's nest and enable you to start a savings account which may be the nest egg for the new home.

Pleasant Homes

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN.

EVEN WHALE-BONE AND RUCHING.

Nothing would surprise us any more. We'd even take whale bone and ruching collars in our stride if somebody told us they were coming back in style. Because here are lace curtains stealing the fashion show again when we thought they were dead and buried long, long ago.

But, of course, the new lace curtains are really new, so it's no wonder they're popular in current interior decoration. There are perfectly sheer nets, both white and ecru, not to mention the hearty looking heavy meshes.

Lace ruffles and ruching edges are the last word for ready made curtains just introduced for spring. They're as dainty as a custom tailored curtain with beautifully finished edges.

You will also find lace curtains with fringed bottoms—some have a straight hanging fringe, others a boucle fringe. And, of course, the usual ball fringe which is nice on lace.

Sewing Lines.

The new headings include one curtain in a horizontal stripe with rows of heavier stripes at the top, called sewing lines, so you can adjust them to fit your windows without having the stitches show. Then there's a heading with slots for the rods which don't show when the curtain is hung. A new frill top, no matter what length the curtain is, gives a nice finish to the top of the window.

Lace curtains with borders continue to be the most in demand of any type. And there are some very smart usable ones. Generally speaking, the all-over nets and all-over lacy designs appeal more to us, though we can see that a woman wanting a straight simply hung curtain would prefer the border because it provides a finish for a curtain that would otherwise be pretty plain. But the all-over gossamer nets lend themselves to more novel treatments and drapings.

One of the important manufacturers is bringing out a guarantee of no-starch, no-shrink, no-fade in lace curtains which should be a comfort to many a damsel who has been in distress over the "hang" of her curtains. And there is a good deal of spun rayon being used in the new nets. This has no lustre but it has a soft, fine feel and fall.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, care The Atlanta Constitution, for our bulletin, "Directions for Making Curtains and Draperies."

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

FROM A COLUMNIST'S DIARY.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21.—Dear diary. . . . Friday. . . . "The Adventures of Marco Polo" preview draws Robert Taylor - Barbara Stanwyck, Jon Hall-Binnie Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Jock Whitney, Andrea Leeds-Jack Dunn, Ida Lupino-Louis Hayward, and, of course, Sam Goldwyn. It's a good picture—gorgeous Gary Cooper is just as gorgeous and Newcomer Sigrid Gurie is very beautiful. But I kept wishing someone would crank the handle a little faster—and qui...en the adventures.

Saturday. . . . The usual Saturday (unusual) sunshine brings all the big shots of the industry to the Santa Anita grandstand—Capra, Cohn, Carroll (Earl), Rogers, Roach, Stromberg, Lazarus, Le Baron, Mankiewicz, Zukor, and Walter Wanger with Joan Bennett. . . . Ruby Keeler lunches with Al Jolson (whose horse comes in second), in summer ermine, an additional beaver coat at the back of her chair. And a spring straw hat. . . . Outside the clubhouse gates, mink-coated Constance Bennett waits for her Rolls-Royce with Gilbert Roland. "There's Joan's chauffeur," says Gilbert. "Where's ours?" "Tsk, tsk," replies Miss Bennett. "You're always in such a hurry." "That isn't so," says Gilbert crossly. "It is, too," replies Connie more crossly. A major quarrel is averted by the arrival of the car. Gilbert helps Connie into it with great dignity—and they are gone in a cloud of luxury.

Sunday. . . . "Who is that tall thin man?" queries a quiet little Englishman at Dorothy Parker's buffet dinner party. I tell him—Dashiell Hammett. The Englishman calls his wife excitedly, "That's Dashiell Hammett," he says to her. "No!" she ejaculates. "Yes," he assures her. . . . A little later. "That man they keep calling Mr. Sherwood — he wouldn't be Robert Sherwood, the playwright?" "Yes, that's he," I reply.

Monday and Tuesday. . . . The rain has returned—also the flu. I'm in good company—with Errol Flynn, Olivia De Havilland, Sigrid Gurie, Rosalind Russell, all bedded with the same complaint.

Wednesday. . . . Sight of the evening—at the Cock 'n' Bull—Marlene Dietrich, swathed in red foxes, sprawling over the cocktail bar with the adoring Doug Fairbanks. . . At her side . . . Barnett Parker (the screen's most impossible butler), tells of the shepherd who broke his arm making a ewe (U) turn! (Sorry.)

Thursday. . . . "Arlington wasn't interested in radio at first—but now enjoys it very much," says Mrs. Ruth Brugh, at MGM's "Good News of 1938" broadcast. Young Arlington—Robert Taylor to me and you—scans the audience searchingly while a hundred female hearts beat faster. He finds the woman he is looking for—his mother—mouths "Hello"—and relaxes.

New Wall Paper

By JEAN MOORE.

Spring's new washable papers come in a varied selection of patterns and colors, especially designed so that there is a paper for every type of room.

With such a variety from which to choose, it should prove a comparatively easy matter to devise new and interesting decorative treatments for your home. There is virtually no lomit to the varied and charming effects you can obtain with properly selected wallpapers, which will bring out your own personality in your home.

MIDDLE-GRADE ENGLISH STOPS YOU FROM MAKING TOP-GRADE FRIENDS

IS YOUR SPEECH MIDDLE, TOP, OR LOW?

Let's begin with the top—with Dorothy. She's transformed her speech so that it rates Grade A with Grade A people—and what a grand time she's having.

Not so long ago she was a middle-grader like so many of us. True, she knew better than to say, "I seen it" for "I saw it"—"ain't" for "isn't." She looked down on Cheap Sadies who say, "I don't know nothing" for "I don't know anything."

But what Dorothy didn't realize was that she made errors which sounded as cheap to well-educated ears as the Sadie errors sounded to hers. And what a shock it was when her employer, in an irritable moment, showed her that her speech fairly bristled with faults.

"Don't say, 'It seems like there's more complaints this week'," he snapped. "Say, 'It seems as if there are more'."

Less conspicuous errors, these, than the "ain'ts" of the Cheap Sadies—but big enough to put a barrier between Dorothy and the cultured people she wanted to be friends with.

Straightway she resolved to do away with mischief-making blunders, to spend a few minutes every day brushing up her speech.

Today her correct, charming talk is always on the right side of these puzzlers: "I haven't but one" or "I have but one;" "I'm going to lay down" or "I'm going to lie down." "I have" and "lie down" are right, of course.

You, too, with the help of our 40-page booklet, COMMON ERRORS IN ENGLISH, can quickly make your speech top-grade—win the admiration of top-grade people—socially and in business.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, COMMON ERRORS IN ENGLISH, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

41 LOTTERY ARRESTS MADE IN JANUARY

Forty-one persons were arrested in Fulton county for lottery activity during the month of January, it was revealed yesterday by officials of the county police identification bureau. All were negroes, 21 of them women.

None were "big shots," but were writers or pick-up men who, police said, have entered the "bug" racket since a clean-up of major companies was made by the September-October grand jury.

The record was kept under a newly-inaugurated system by which every case cleared through Fulton Tower is indexed according to the nature of the offense, defendant's race, sex and previous record.

Trading was just fair late Sunday and slow Monday morning. Rail receipts were moderate and truck arrivals the heaviest for the winter season to date. Apples were moving slowly except for bulk stock and prices were practically unchanged. Cabbage and snap bean supplies were heavy and prices declined slightly, but movement was fairly good for both commodities. The citrus market was steady under heavy receipts. Tomatoes, eggplant, onions and new potatoes were slightly weaker. Collards were slightly higher with moderate offerings, but other greens were about steady.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Industrials led the stock market on a leisurely forward tilt today for gains running to a point generally, with a few advances of 3 or so.

The fact the list was able to make headway in the face of confusing foreign developments, including the Hitler speech and Eden's resignation, was cheering.

It was a slow-motion session with the ticker tape dawdling from the start. Steels pointed the way. There was profit selling intervals and closing quotations were somewhat under the best of the day.

Transfers totaled 758,871 shares compared with 768,970 last Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .8 of a point at 45.4.

Listlessness of the proceedings was attributed partly to the fact many traders decided to skip the Monday session and extend their holiday through tomorrow when the exchange will be closed in observance of Washington's birthday.

While Wall Street was concerned about European matters, there was the solacing thought that, in view of the unsettled situation abroad, trans-Atlantic capital may decide American stocks and bonds are a safer haven than at home. At the same time no great buying rush was looked for at the moment from this quarter because fears still exist overseas that the United States may yet be forced into more "inflation."

ATLANTA SPOT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Cotton continued into further new high ground today on trade and commission house buying. May sold up from 9.11 to 9.26, and closed at 9.24, with final prices 13 to 18 points net higher.

After opening advances of 3 to 6 points, prices sagged a few points. The market turned upward, however, as the trade absorbed near month offerings prior to first notice day on Wednesday. Firmness of outside markets and the disposition to place a bullish interpretation on European developments attracted buying during the morning. Demand broadened in the afternoon when Worth Street reported large sales of cotton goods at advancing prices.

Spot merchants reported no indication of increased activity in spot cotton. Exports today 18,192 making a total of 4,330,620 for the season thus far. Port receipts 16,549; United States port stocks 3,186,987.

Liverpool was a fairly active buyer here even after the English market had closed. Cables from abroad reported Chancellor Hitler's speech as being less provocative than expected and some in the trade here were inclined to take a hopeful view of the European situation.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON GAINS NEAR $1 BALE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—(AP) Cotton gained nearly $1 a bale here today on local and foreign trade buying and pre-holiday covering by shorts. The close was steady at net advances of 15 to 18 points.

Improved foreign markets and advancing stocks and grains were the principal factors behind the desire to buy. Selling orders were small and limited to realizing by recent purchasers.

Traders assumed a more cheerful view of the international situation and regarded the Hitler speech Sunday as less bearish than had been generally expected.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The bond market today was generally lower at the close, although some secondary rails showed gains. United States treasuries were firm.

Austrian 7s tumbled 18 points to 78 at the close in brisk trading stimulated by international developments, and some other central European issues followed. German 7s were up 1 3-8 at 33 1-2 and Italy 7s up 1 7-8 at 79 1-2.

Philippine Railway 4s were down 8 38 at 21 7-8; Nickel Plate 6s down 2 1-2 at 60 1-2; and losses a point or more were registered by Alleghany Stamped 5s at 30; American Waterworks 6s at 96; International Great Northern 5s "B" at 17; Chicago and Western Indiana 4 1-4s at 85; and New Haven 6s at 29 1-4.

Fractional gains were made by Northwestern 4 3-4s, at 6; Rock Island 4s at 18 3-4; Illinois Central 4 3-4s at 36 1-2; "Katy" 5s at 47; Missouri Pacific 5s at 23, and Frisco 4 1-2s at 12 1-4.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We look for the rally to continue somewhat further, possibly to the 134-135 level of the Dow-Jones industrial averages.

BEER & CO.—Market continues to act well gives promise of testing the January top.

FENNER & BEANE—At this point, the broadening of interest in the market carries favorable technical implication and there would appear to be room for further extension of the rally.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We do not see anything to justify cotton selling above loan level, therefore we would take profit on long, should the market advance any further.

BEER & CO.—We continue to favor purchases on any recessions.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Fifteen to 20-points higher market for the near position should be the testing ground as to whether cotton can be offered more freely from the loan. If this should happen, present advance can easily be checked, while these loan offerings are absorbed.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Barring foreign complications, which are not likely, we think that wheat will sell lower because crop prospects here and in Europe seem to be from good to excellent and this should mean plenty of wheat for all purposes next year with a big surplus.

BEER & CO.—We favor sales at current levels.

FENNER & BEANE—The market seems to be its own best advocate for treating its easier moments as an invitation to the long side and if buying wheat would prefer the May.

COTTONSEED OIL OPINIONS.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—We continue to look for higher prices.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Surprising downturns of Liverpool wheat values dominated the Chicago wheat market today, and prices here averaged lower, despite pre-holiday evening-up of accounts.

General selling of wheat futures in Chicago with tumbles of 1 1-2 cents a bushel followed announcement that Liverpool quotations, due 1-8 to 3-4 of a cent higher showed at one stage today a fall of as much as 1 7-8 cents. The selling flurry here was based largely on the fact that trade dispatches from Liverpool instead of doing as expected, giving prominence to disturbed political conditions in Europe, made only casual reference to that subject.

Warlike aspects of European happenings were virtually ignored in Liverpool market advices, and meanwhile stress was put on increased offerings of Austrian wheat, together with relative absence of purchase offers on the part of British importers. Acting as a further weight on Chicago wheat prices was the circumstance that export business in North American wheat today amounted to only a few small quantities of United States hard winter grades.

Eden's Resignation Held 'Bullish' Development by Some Analyists

Observers Arrive at Conclusion by Arguing Britain Can Now Come to Understanding With Italy and So Lessen Danger of European War.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Strength in the stock market after the week-end events abroad is susceptible of various explanations. It was evident, however, that concern over what was happening in Europe, if there was concern, was not acute enough to offset other considerations of a bullish nature.

Strange as it may seem, there were those who argued that the resignation of Anthony Eden as British foreign secretary was a favorable and not an unfavorable development. They arrived at this conclusion by asserting that the departure of Mr. Eden from the cabinet made it possible for Britain to come to an understanding with Italy and so lessen the danger of a European war. This, of course, was contingent on parliament supporting the policy of Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Even the Hitler speech was not regarded as menacing in fact as it was in tone and not as closing the door to peace with Britain, especially now that Eden is out. This theory is given here for what it is worth.

London Market Down.

The London market went contrary to New York. Stocks over there closed down, although not importantly. However, the decline in British industrials was sufficient to carry that average into new low ground for the bear market. The rails were off a small fraction, but still a half point above the low recorded last week.

It is of course possible that the economic outlook is controlling the London market rather than the international crisis. That is a matter of opinion. At any rate, there was no bullish demonstration abroad on the expectations of peaceful solution of Europe's troubles.

Pound Cheaper.

The foreign exchanges moved in favor of the dollar. Sterling came down sufficiently to reduce the New York equivalent of the London price of gold to $35.05, against $35.10 on Saturday. Here, again, two reasons may be assigned.

One would be a reversion to the feeling that the United States, after all, was the safest refuge for capital, the business depression here to the contrary notwithstanding.

The other was that Europe was taking at its face value the denial of the administration that any further devaluation of the dollar was to be attempted. Taking it either way, the exchanges did not register satisfaction with the outlook abroad.

Commodities Stronger.

Perhaps the most logical explanation of the advance in our market was conviction that the Washington campaign for higher commodity prices would be successful. In most of the future markets, commodities put on a show of strength, although not so emphatically as stocks.

One may be skeptical about a higher level for staples being achieved and maintained over the longer period without denying that some speculative recovery may be registered from the present extremely depressed levels. That a managd economy can reverse a deflation permanently when it chooses is one thing, and that it can bring speculative buying into the markets for the time being is another.

News Is Sparse.

There was not much of a constructive nature in the news, but there was not much of the other kind either.

The estimated rate of steel operations was down a shade. It has remained practically unchanged for three weeks.

The automobile industry is increasing production and preparing for an aggressive sales campaign. Debits to individual accounts were up 10 per cent on the week, but last week the decline was exceptionally sharp. It is doubtful whether there has been any change in trend.

Business Trends In Financial News

(Copyright 1938)

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—Among the favorable and unfavorable items in the day's business news are the following:

FAVORABLE.

Nash-Kelvinator Corporation retail automobile sales in first 10 days of February were 20 per cent ahead like period of January.

UNFAVORABLE.

Steel ingot production in the United States for week beginning February 21 is scheduled at 30.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 31 per cent a week ago.

Ford Motor Company laid off about one-third of force at Edgewater, N. J., plant.

WET GROUP OPENS PEACHTREE OFFICE

Dr. Nathan Thompson Charges Temperance Committee 'Hand Picked.'

The oral battle over liquor in Georgia proceeded on a far-flung front yesterday as circulation of petitions calling for local option elections proceeded in Fulton and other counties.

Headquarters of a group of businessmen seeking repeal of the dry law in Fulton county was set up in Atlanta, while Georgia drys attending a regional meeting of the Anti-Saloon League in St. Petersburg, Fla., lashed out with new attacks on the Georgia legislature and the local option law.

Dr. Nath Thompson, Methodist dry leader, charged the temperance committees of the house and senate were "hand-picked wets" and said they arranged the Georgia referendum while in executive sessions where two persons representing the federal government were heard.

Office on Peachtree.

Stuart P. Murray, representing the Atlanta businessmen interested in calling an election in Fulton county, announced establishment of headquarters at 107 Peachtree street as he urged qualified voters to sign and send in petitions.

He said a petition will be sent by messenger to any qualified voter if requested. The telephone number at headquarters is Main 2155.

"I want folks to come by and sign the petitions if they can or to ask us for them to sign and return," Murray said. "We are circulating the card petitions as fast as we can and results are very promising.

"I believe we will have the required 17,000 signed cards within a week or ten days," he asserted.

Volunteer workers are helping to distribute the petitions to qualified voters, he declared.

Muscogee Petition.

In the meantime, another county was ready for the election date to be set. A petition carrying more than the required number of names was presented Ordinary H. H. Hunter in Muscogee county (Columbus). Hunter said he would check the list before setting a date.

Muscogee's petition is the seventh presented so far.

Baker county was to have voted yesterday but the election has been enjoined by an attack on the constitutionality of the local option law.

W. W. Gaines, head of the Consolidated Forces for Prohibition in Georgia, has said the dry group is prepared to seek injunctions in other counties to "make sure." However, no other injunction plea had been reported yesterday.

CHALLENGE TO SPRING CHECKED HERE BY SUN

Winter's challenge to Atlanta's early spring was checked, at least temporarily, yesterday when the sun burst through and sent the mercury climbing to 57 degrees.

Mostly cloudy was the prediction for today with rain declared probable by nightfall. Lowest temperature this morning will be approximately 36 degrees, the weatherman said. The low yesterday was 35.

Frost fell on Atlanta yesterday morning and was reported as far south as McRae, but so warm was the ground from the weeks of premature spring that it was not visible, except on the roofs.

The weatherman said he had received no reports of damage to fruit trees.

JACK BENNY SETTLES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Jack Benny, screen and radio comedian, settled today for $4,500 a government claim for $7,756 additional income tax for 1934.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 26

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jeff might as well have been firing his rifle at a bird on the wing, so swift was Tarzan's upward flight. And before he could shoot again, the ape-man, bearing the girl, had disappeared into the foliage. The hunter growled with rage and frustration.

High in the trees, Mary came out of her daze and found herself in Tarzan's arms. "Take your hands off me," she screamed. "Look down," the ape-man smiled; "then tell me if you still wish me to turn you loose." The girl looked down into the sea of foliage.

She was terrified, not only by the fact that she was high in the trees, but also by the power of this man who had been able to bring her here. From her lips came a terrified shriek. "Help! Help!" And from below rose Jeff's anxious, bewildered answer.

Unfortunately for Tarzan and for Mary, Jeff was not the only one who heard her frantic shriek. Far away in the wilderness her cry came faintly to the ears of a Zambeh scout. His savage face lighted with pleasure. A woman captive would be welcome indeed!

Exquisite Etchings at Museum Offer Tips on Floral Arrangements

By ELLEN ST. JOHN BARNWELL.

Spring and summer flowers burst into permanent blossom at the High Museum of Art today—in pictures. From saucy crocuses to formal calla lilies the representatives of the flower families are present in exquisite etchings and dry points done by John H. Clifford, president of the Swain School of Design, New Bedford, Mass. This exhibit of 61 pieces has come direct from New Orleans and will be on display in gallery 3, at the High Museum from today until March 3.

The showing will interest all flower lovers and members of Atlanta's many garden clubs might find tips on floral arrangement from these pictures done by this nationally outstanding artist.

Statuette Accentuates Softness.

"Statuette" is the title of one etching that shows a graceful array of blossoms in a crystal vase besides which is a statuette accentuating the fragileness of the flowers and the softness of the velvet drapery on which they both stand.

"Three Roses" are real even to a fallen petal. "Tulips" are shown dramatically against a window pane and his "Iris" are very beautiful. Each piece is so splendidly done, with careful regard for the texture of the leaves and veins in the buds, that every thing about the flowers has been caught but the fragrance.

"Snapdragons," "Cactus Flower," "Larkspur," "Carnations," "Poppy" and "Pansies" are the titles of some of the works that show gallery 3 to be a garden for 12 days.

Puddles of April Day.

There are a few etchings such as "The Old Elm" and "Tree by the Road," that while they are not flower pictures, are vivid reflections of nature. Especially appealing is "The Shower," where the rain and puddles of an April day are glorified.

His treatment of shadows emphasizes the loveliness of the flowers. "Vine" is an intricate decorative piece complete with tendrils and berries, where as "Garden Pool" shows a general host of posies reflected in a dark little lake. "Pines" is a vigorous out-of-door picture, but "Gardenias" shows those blossoms in an open florist box.

As a whole the display has charm and individuality. Open to the public without charge, this collection is shown in connection with the one in the auditorium gallery, from Newhouse, of New York, and the permanent exhibit.

The oil paintings done by the old masters, from the 15th through the 18th century, will be seen in the auditorium gallery 10 days longer.

Considerable Comment.

One magnificent canvas, painted over 200 years ago, entitled "Landscape and Figures," is causing much comment. It shows peasants gently driving cattle across a rustic bridge toward grazing meadows and completes a scene of beauty and contentment.

Lewis Parmer Skidmore, director of the museum, points out that the clouds are alive with light and that the rich mass color balances. The eye is caught in the center of the picture by the yellowish bark of the largest tree. Many have asked why this painting is signed by Van Unden as well as that giant among artists, Peater Paul Rubens.

"Rubens was a business man," explains Mr. Skidmore, "and he became aware of his works' popularity and great demand, he opened a shop, employed assistants whom he taught and got to help him do his many paintings. Lucas Van Unden, a much younger man, who became a noted artist in his own right, assisted Rubens in this painting. Van Unden excelled in representing trees; Rubens, in figures. So, this picture combines the best of both."

Designed Every Picture.

Although Rubens became hundred-handed as it were, he personally designed every picture that went out from his studio. But canvases were of tremendous proportion in that day and assistants were needed. It is easier understood why large pictures were popular when remembered that castle-like houses and cathedrals, which they were painted to decorate, were characterized by spaciousness.

The most outstanding pupil of Rubens was none other than Van Dyck, whose original painting, "Lady Swan," is displayed at the museum. Rubens thought that Van Dyck might do portraits better than the landscapes on which he had him working. To the master's surprise the pupil Van Dyck proved to be so gifted that he surpassed even Rubens himself.

A stage-frightened young man, holding a biscuit-size watch with dangling key, anxiously awaits the moment that he is to grasp his violin and bow from the table behind him and commence to play. This is seen in the canvas entitled "The Young Musician," by Pietro Longhi. It is strange and unusual and Mr. Skidmore describes it as a French primitive.

Two Corots Displayed.

The great Corot, French landscape master, is represented by two handsome canvases. One large piece shows a shepherd seated under a graceful tree playing his flute while his flock rest near by. P. F. Nesi, who has come to Atlanta from New York and Paris lecturing on the pictures, explains that this is a very valuable picture. Although at one time those pictures done by Corot in dark colors were not considered his best, today they are in unusual demand and cannot be had for less than many thousand dollars.

There is also a small Corot showing peasants, market baskets over arms, walking down a misty lane on an early spring morning.

Each picture in the collection is rare and interesting. The exhibit is open to the public without charge. The museum is open from 9 to 5 on week days and 2 to 5 on Sundays.

'Dark Horse' Loses To 'Swing' Golfer

A negro who broke into a golfer's home flourishing a knife and demanding money early yesterday retreated in dismay when the golfer answered his demands with an onslaught of putters, drivers and spoons.

Instead of insisting further, the burglar begged the swinging golfer to let him out.

The golfer, Benjamin Levine, of 710 Pulliam street, awoke yesterday when the negro entered through a rear window and demanded money. Instead, Levine went into a clothes closet and came out swinging clubs. The negro ran down the hall and out.

Girl Partner Of Runaway Pair To Return Home

After a tearful reconciliation last night with "Aunt Nannie," 16-year-old Melba Gatewood, who came to Atlanta a week ago with her milk-hand swain, 97 cents and hopes for wedded bliss after both found jobs, was ready to start back to the Wadesboro, N. C., farm they both left to brave the rigors of the "big city."

Melba and the 20-year-old object of her affection, Herbert Roberts, hired man on the farm where she lived with Miss Nannie Gatewood, her aunt, and Thomas Gatewood, her uncle, were picked up Thursday night by police who found them wandering around in Atlanta, their hopes for jobs and the future very much jaded.

Miss Gatewood arrived last night with the Wadesboro sheriff to take Melba back to the farm. Melba, who was firmly convinced she and Herbert could find jobs in Atlanta, greeted her aunt tearfully, policewomen said.

Melba's love for Herbert seemed headed for the rocks, for Herbert was not notified of the arrival of the pair from Wadesboro. Police, who have been holding the two runaways on instructions from the Wadesboro sheriff, indicated Herbert most likely would be released as soon as "Aunt Nannie" takes Melba away.

STAMP SAYS CRISIS WILL INVOLVE U. S.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Sir Josiah Stamp, director of the Bank of England, predicted today that the United States must become involved in the ominous chain of events in Europe which began Sunday with Adolf Hitler's demand for Germany's "lost" colonies.

"Germany's demand is no simple matter of 'giving back' some colonies," said Sir Josiah in an interview. "Every nation that signed the treaty of Versailles must be consulted before these lands change hands.

"Then, too, the countries that border on the disputed colonies must be consulted. Even your Monroe Doctrine probably will be involved. What would the United States say to a British proposal that certain of the West Indies be substituted for the former German colonies to appease Germany's demands?"

Sir Josiah and Lady Oliver Stamp, his wife, arrived here today from Australia and are en route to England. They left here by train tonight and will sail from New York on the Normandie.
